TRIPLE FATALITY—Emergency personnel work to remove the body of Richard Kendall of Slidell, La., from his car after a one-vehicle crash that also killed Caroline E. Barnes of Kiln and John M. Griffith of Silver Creek Acres and injured John Monday of New Orleans. Monday was trapped in the car for several hours after the crash, which authorities believe occurred about midnight and which was not discovered until shortly before 7 a.m. Tuesday. The accident is still under investigation by State Trooper Houston Dorr. (Photo by John Wilkerson)

One-car crash claims 3, traps injured survivor

BY DENA BISNETTE

The cause of a three-fatality accident on Highway 604 that left an injured survivor trapped alone in a vehicle for about six hours Tuesday morning is still being investigated by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

A patrol spokesman said the accident apparently occurred around midnight when a car driven by Richard Kendall, 23, of Slidell, La., struck a bridge on Highway 604 north of Pearlington about a half-mile from the Highway 607 intersection.

The survivor, John Monday, 23, of New Orleans, La. was taken to Hancock Medical Center for treatment of a fractured arm and leg, then was transferred to Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

The dead included Kendall, Caroline E. Barnes, 22, of Kiln and John M. Griffith, 23, of Silver Creek Acres, Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet said.

Stiglet pronounced the three dead at the scene at about 7:40 a.m. Tuesday, but estimated that they had been dead several hours.

He said Barnes and Griffith had been thrown from the vehicle and Kendall was pinned behind the wheel of the car, which had gone down an embankment and into a creekbed.

Monday was found alive in the back seat by Bobby Baxter of Pearlington.

Baxter stated that he was on his way to work at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories at about 6:40 a.m. when his car hit a piece of debris in the road.

It was about dawn, he added. He said he parked his car and got out to remove the debris from the roadway. The wrecked car was not visible to him as he walked along the ditch but he could hear Monday moaning and went down into the creek to investigate.

Baxter said he found the two bodies on the ground, the dead driver behind the wheel and Monday in the back seat. The bodies and the car engine were cold.

He said Monday was slipping in and out of consciousness but told him he thought he had been there since about midnight.

He also reportedly told Baxter that he had been able to hear a number of vehicles passing but none stopped.

A highway patrol spokesman confirmed that it was not possible for the wreck to be seen from the road, particularly before daylight.

He said the car had spun around and its headlights were pointed back toward Pearlington, eliminating the possibility of a reflection on the vehicle's taillights.

Baxter was able to stop two vehicles, one headed toward Pearlington and the other en route to NSTL, and asked them to summon help.

A third vehicle, driven by Alton Benoit of Pearlington, told him he had already summoned authorities.

"He told me he had run over some debris but did not know how bad the accident was," Baxter said.

Baxter stayed on the scene, continuously talking to Monday, until the first state trooper arrived at

Lakeshore man charged with murder following incident at birthday bash

BY BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Twenty-two-year-old Reggie J. Barrios of Lakeshore was charged with murder Saturday in the stabbing death of Charles Fred Nixon, 51, of Clermont Harbor.

The incident allegedly occurred Saturday approximately 9:30 p.m. at the residence of Wayne Moore in Clermont Harbor, where a birthday party for Barrios was being held, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

About 100 people were attending the party when Nixon and his wife came to the event in search of their 15-year-old son, he added.

"In an altercation between Barrios and Nixon, Barrios was allegedly cut in the stomach by the older man," Peterson said.

After this altercation was broken up, Nixon was returning to his car, when Barrios allegedly grabbed a kitchen knife off a picnic table and stabbed Nixon numerous times, Peterson continued.

Nixon was taken to Hancock Medical Center where he died and Barrios was transported to Memorial Hospital in Gulfport, where he was treated and released.

In an initial appearance Monday before Justice Court Judge Joseph Dobson, bond for Barrios was set at $50,000.

A preliminary hearing is tentatively scheduled for Oct. 19.

Peterson said the investigation has indicated there were numerous kegs of beer at the party as well as indication of some drugs being present.

According to Peterson, there has been no confirmation of claims that drug initiation was conducted at the party.

Circulars announcing the party, complete with a map to the area, were circulated in the community as well as at Hancock North Central High School. Investigator Nathan Hoda stated.

Barrios is being held in the Hancock County Jail.

617 pounds of marijuana seized at Stennis airport

BY BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Federal charges are being considered against four men accused of conspiracy to distribute marijuana who were arrested at Stennis International Airport Tuesday.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Wednesday federal officials are reviewing the case to determine whether federal charges or state charges will be filed against the four.

The suspects were arrested following a joint investigation by several law enforcement agencies that also resulted in 617 pounds of marijuana and a Cessna 310 airplane being seized.

Arrested were Ernest Veldron Milton, 51, of Climax, Ga., who was the airplane pilot; Patrick Warren Lewis, 29, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Randy James Bullock, 35, of Bainbridge, Ga.; and Larry Anthony Mixon, 38, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Harrison County Sheriff Larkin

Smith reported Tuesday the investigation began after an alert police officer noticed something suspicious.

Smith said this was an example of the work officers are being trained to do.

"I expect you will be able to expect seizures of this type more frequently," he continued.

Participating in the investigation were the Hancock and Harrison counties sheriffs' departments, Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics Control, Drug Enforcement Administration and the United States Customs Service.

This investigation was heralded as the beginning of a new level of cooperation among law enforcement agencies in stopping drugs from coming in on the Gulf Coast.

Peterson said in his 16 years of law enforcement, he had never seen such cooperation between the different agencies.

According to Earl C. Switzer, resident agent in charge with Customs, a major accomplishment of the investigation was the seizure of the airplane which could have been used repeatedly to smuggle in drugs.

"Anytime you stop 600 pounds of marijuana from coming into Mississippi, it is a big bust," he added.

According to the flight information, the airplane departed early Monday from Ocean Springs, and flew to Belize International Airport, Smith said.

The plane returned to Stennis Airport approximately 11:30 p.m. where 19 bales of marijuana, wrapped in black plastic and duct tape were dumped, he continued.

"When the pilot spotted law enforcement officers, he attempted to taxi across a medium to prepare for takeoff," Switzer said.

The pilot apparently overlooked a drainage ditch in the medium and when the plane hit the medium, it bounced up in the air and then crashed down, he added.

The pilot was not injured.

Smith said no local connection had been discovered in the incident but that he did not think this was the first operation of this type for the four suspects.

"They probably made their living this way," he continued.

According to Peterson, Stennis was selected as an offload site most likely because of the good runway and the fact that the airport is not manned at night.

E-911 project started, could take two years

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County has completed a first step in implementing Enhanced 911 emergency service, but as much as two years could elapse before the system is usable.

According to Hancock County Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murtagh, the mapping phase of the project has just been completed with the assistance of a Jackson firm, Ray Eaton and Associates.

The maps show where the structures are that have to be numbered and include a grid for new growth.

The mapping was done in compliance with new legislation requiring that all residential houses and other types of structures such as commercial buildings be numbered and all streets be named.

The Enhanced 911 service is being implemented as the result of voters' approval of a referendum included on primary ballots in Hancock County.

The two projects fit together naturally but the numbering work must be finished and coordinated with the U.S. Postal Service before the second part, the actual implementation of the E-911 System, can be started.

Murtagh will be working with Ron Sims of South Mississippi Planning and Development District to implement the system, because Sims has worked with Harrison County on a similar system there.

"It's a big program and will go along with reappraisal to a large extent," Murtagh said, explaining that the names, addresses and telephone numbers for the system must be computerized in much the same manner as reappraisal information is computerized.

"We have to find out what needs to be done and when we need to do it, then work backward," he added.

The computerized numbers and other information pertaining to a 911 call, including location of the telephone being used, will be available to emergency service agencies equipped with the computer equipment.

Although the telephone number will still be 911, an Enhanced 911 system will eliminate the need for the caller to identify his location, allowing emergency services to respond even if the caller is unable to speak or the call is disconnected.

The present cost of operating the system is estimated at 49 to 73 cents per telephone subscriber.

"It is an assurance that help is obtainable, particularly to the elderly and those on a fixed income," Murtagh said.

In Murtagh's office, about $2,500 to

Hancock United Way reaches 24 percent

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The United Way of Hancock County has reached 24 percent of its $85,000 1987 Fundraising Drive goal.

Conrad Mauffray, executive director, reported to the officers and directors at the October meeting on Tuesday some $15,163 has already been received.

The United Way of Hancock County funds 17 agencies which offer assistance to the residents of the area.

The organization receives donations from individuals, payroll deductions, corporate gifts, industries and businesses.

The Hancock County United Way also receives funding through the Combined Agency Campaign, (CAC) at NSTL and the Combined Federal Campaign, (CFC) for governmental workers.

Chuck Benvenuti, Hancock County president, requests residents of the county working outside the area who are making payroll deductions, to please designate Hancock County United Way as the recipient.

Lonnie Clayborn, a UW director is also the 1987 campaign chairman with co-chairman; Bob Breeden, Rosary Eble, David Treutel Jr., Kathy Fernandez, and Lou Hall.

Other officers of the Hancock United Way are Ellis Cuevas, vice-president; Hilda Bourg, treasurer; May Beyer, secretary; Rev. Charles Clark, chaplain; Martha Van Peski, executive secretary; Rick Egan, Clarice Gustin, Michael Haas Sr., Pat Mauffray, Bob Hubbard, John Mason and Roger Oge, directors.

Any industry or business needing information on the Hancock County United Way can contact one of the officers, directors or campaign chairmen.

Clayborn said, "We will be happy to address any group, especially those using or wishing to use payroll deductions."

Persons wishing to make a contribution can do so by mailing it to United Way of Hancock County, P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520.

Italian cooks count among their culinary gems tasty little rice croquettes with a bit of cheese nestled in the center. These delicious bites are known as "Croquettes Al Telefono"—or "Telephone Croquettes" because, as you cut into them, the cheese makes a long string from one part to the next, much like a miniature telephone wire.

These croquettes with the amusing name are also a good way to use up leftover rice, and bits of seafood or meat may also be added if you wish.

Made with just the rice and cheese, they are tasty as a lunch or dinner dish, and are excellent as appetizers when you make them bite-size. So, here's:

CROQUETTES
AL TELEFONO

2 cups cooked rice
2 Tblsp. flour
2 Tblsp. butter
1 cup milk
½ cup grated Swiss cheese
12 or so thin "sticks" or strips of Swiss cheese
Additional flour as needed
1 egg
Italian seasoned bread crumbs
Pepper, salt (optional)
Oil for frying
First, make your cream (white) sauce. Melt the butter (or margarine) and add the flour, and cook, stirring the while, for just about a minute, but don't brown it, and gradually stir in the milk. Simmer just a bit, stirring as you do, till it thickens.

Remove the pan from the fire and stir in the grated cheese. Mix with the cooked rice and season to your taste. (At this point, you may wish to add leftover chicken, tuna, ham, chopped fine.)

At any rate, let the mixture cool, then chill it so that it is quite firm and easy to handle. At this point, shape the rice mixture around the cheese "sticks" into little sausage shapes, making sure that you cover the cheese completely.

Roll in flour, then in beaten egg, then roll in the breadcrumbs, and refrigerate for at least a few hours—all such breaded foods should be chilled before cooking so that the coating doesn't part company with the food while frying.

Fry the croquettes in deep, hot fat until golden brown and crusty.

Drain well on paper towels. (Sometimes I do them in just half an inch of oil with good results.) For extra flavor and eye appeal you may wish to add a couple of tablespoons of chopped parsley and a bit of chopped green onion to your croquette mixture. (Four servings.)

Mississippi's state forester named to head national group

Mississippi State Forester, Robert T. "Sid" Moss, a native of Jasper County, has been elected President of the National Association of State Foresters (NASF) for 1987-88. He is the first State Forester of Mississippi to ever hold this important National position.

Moss served the NASF as Treasurer (1985-86) and Vice-President (1986-87) before being named to the top position among leaders of the Nation's State Forestry Agencies. He has served as State Forester of Mississippi since August, 1982.

Moss replaces outgoing NASF President James A. "Art" Starnes, Washington State Forester.

Serving with Moss on the NASF Executive Committee for the coming year are: Vice-President, James B. Roberts, Maryland State Forester, Treasurer, James E. Hubbard, Colorado State Forester, and Secretary, Roy C. Ashley, State Forester of Tennessee. Melinda Cohen serves the Association as their Washington, D.C. representative.

The National Association of State Foresters is a major force in the development, shaping and implementation of the Nation's forest policy, particularly with regard to private and State-owned timber lands. The Association works closely with other conservation-related agencies and organizations, including the U.S. Forest Service, to foster programs and legislation beneficial to all our Nation's natural resources.

Here's an interesting question. Can you guess which man has played in more World Series games than anyone else in history? Answer is Yogi Berra. Yogi set the all-time record by playing in a grand total of 75 different World Series games.

What was the strangest World Series ever played? How about the one in 1960? Did you know in that Series the Yankees scored 55 runs and the Pirates only 27, yet the Pirates won the Series four games to three!

Could you imagine the manager of a pennant-winning baseball team saying he didn't want his team to play in the World Series? Did you know such a thing once happened? It was in 1904... The Giants won the National League pennant but their manager, John McGraw, refused to let them meet the American League winner, the Red Sox... And so, no World Series was played in 1904.

I bet you didn't know...Auto World is your best bet for engine overhaul kits. We feature Hastings piston rings and Felpro gaskets. Remember, we're under the Flag!

We remember the proud protector as she stood watch over the island for nearly a century.

In her day, the magnificent wooden structure known as Ship Island Lighthouse was a certain sign of security, summoning weary sailors home from the sea.

She weathered every storm, even Camille. And even though a careless camper's fire destroyed her in 1972, folks fondly recall South Mississippi's most loyal lady.

It's no coincidence that Hancock Bank chose Ship Island Lighthouse to be its symbol. Both were born here. And both share nearly a century of strength, security and service.

And just as sailors of old looked to the lighthouse beacon for guidance, so too do thousands of South Mississippi families look to Hancock Bank.

We'll always be here, in good times and bad, through every storm. Making it possible for South Mississippians to realize their hopes and dreams.

Because this is our tradition, this is our heritage.

But most of all, this is our home.

The undefeated Hawks of Hancock North Central will tangle with the Bearcats of Long Beach in Hawk stadium on Friday night.

Head coach Irvin Favre's Hawks have been playing very good ball this season and will try to extend their 1987 winning streak to six against the Bearcats.

Long Beach could catch the Hawks thinking about future schedules and possibly pull a surprise, so we hope Hancock will be going full strength.

St. Stanislaus will travel to Metairie, La. on Thursday night to play Riverdale.

Stanislaus will be trying to get back on the winning track after losing to a strong Poplarville last Friday.

Head coach Ken Lyons, in his first season at St. Stanislaus, would like to see his squad above the 500 mark for the next two home games.

Pass Christian's Pirates came so close last week to winning their first game of the season in high school football.

The Pirates lost to East Central by a 7-0 score and probably gave their best performance of the season.

This Friday the Pirates will play host to a strong Pearl River Central. Pass Christian could pull a big surprise by winning.

The Tigers of Bay High, with only one blemish on their record, rolled over Long Beach 24-8 last week.

This Friday the Tigers have an open date and will be preparing for next week's encounter with St. Martin.

Remember the high school football games, St. Stanislaus at Riverdale on Thursday, and on Friday night, Hancock North Central at home hosting Long Beach, and Pass Christian hosting Pearl River Central.

I had a long chat with Bill Little on Tuesday at the Bay St. Louis Bus Depot.

Bill and his wife Val are once again running the bus depot after a long stint at the Gulfport Greyhound depot.

Bill, as many of you will recall, was also a Hancock County sheriff's dispatcher for many years.

In recent years, Bill has been having health problems, a stroke, some surgery, and has even lost his eyesight this year due to diabetes.

We know Bill has many friends in the area, and I feel it would really make him and Val feel good if you were in the area of the bus depot, if you stopped by to say hello.

Catfish market growing in U.S.

In praise of the lowly catfish... That line appears in a million-dollar advertising campaign throughout the heartland of the United States to promote Mississippi farm-raised catfish.

And that line is indicative of the bright spot the catfish has created in the state's lagging agriculture industry.

Catfish sales are up 31 percent this year over last, or some 43 million pounds above last year's totals, said Bill Allen, president of The Catfish Institute.

The ad campaign, which appeared in nine magazines in a 12-state area, also spoke of "Behind every great catfish recipe is an ugly catfish" and "It's all in the breeding." At the bottom of those ads, readers were encouraged to send in $1.50 for recipes.

The Catfish Institute has received some $21,000 in checks as a result of those ads, Allen said.

The ads were designed as a humorous approach to clearing the misconception of the catfish as a throwaway scavenger fish.

The institute is working to get rid of that misconception and stress the versatility, nutritional value and taste of catfish.

The work is paying off. Besides the interest shown from the ad campaign, national newspapers and magazines have run stories on the increasing popularity of catfish, and network television shows have featured spots on the subject.

Mississippians with an eye on the state economy can lead the praise of the lowly catfish.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Mississippi Democrats have wheeled out an oldtime party loyalist in an attempt to unseat Public Service Commissioner Nielsen Cochran, the only Republican now serving in public office at the state level.

Fifty-eight-year old Frank Barber, one of the last of the 1960 Kennedy Democrats still active on the state political scene, had jumped into the central district public service commissioner race just 20 minutes before the deadline for qualifying back in June.

Until Barber made his entry, Cochran, the younger brother of U.S. Sen. Thad Cochran, was headed for re-election without opposition, assuring the republicans of holding on to at least one state office.

The Democrats had been desperately searching for a candidate to challenge Cochran when Barber, now a Jackson attorney and legislative lobbyist, agreed to take on the 46-year-old Republican public service commissioner.

Strategically, the Democrats felt they had to field a suitable candidate in the PSC spot in order to validate the party's viability. But beyond that, there were other political considerations in seeing that Cochran did not go unchallenged.

The key one was to keep Sen. Cochran occupied on another front so he couldn't use all of his political clout in behalf of GOP gubernatorial candidate Jack Reed, who the senator had helped to recruit.

Barber, who says he was "nourished on Mississippi

Democratic politics," hasn't run for office since he was elected to the state Senate from Forrest County in 1959. He gave up his Senate seat in 1964 to serve as an administrative assistant to his very close friend, Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Jr.

The Barber personal and political ties with the Johnson family go back to when he was an 8-year-old moppet in Hattiesburg passing out campaign literature for Gov. Paul B. Johnson Sr. Evertime a Johnson ran for office thereafter, which was often, Barber was around to help in some capacity.

As an advance man for Paul Johnson, Jr. in the latter's almost-successful bid for governor in 1955, Barber says "They didn't give us any money...you had to live off the land."

When the younger Johnson finally won the governor's office in 1963, after serving as lieutenant-governor under Ross Barnett, Barber was the key organizer of the campaign. "Those were the days," Barber says, "when we didn't have any of these high-priced national consultants."

After getting his law degree in the late 1950's, Barber had gone to work on the staff of Sen. James O. Eastland in Washington. There he had become an admirer of a young senator from Massachusetts named John F. Kennedy.

When Kennedy made his bid for the presidency in 1960, Barber went to the National Democratic Convention in Los Angeles as a one-man Mississippi campaign committee for Kennedy, trying to keep Gov. Ross Barnett and the state delegation from bolting the party. Frustrated, Barber later had to be hospitalized for mental fatigue.

Barber wound up as one of the brave band of Mississippi Democrats who battled unsuccessfully to keep Barnett's unpledged presidential electors from carrying the state over Kennedy in the 1960 race.

When Paul Johnson, Jr. went out of office in 1963, Barber again joined Eastland's staff in Washington, staying on until Eastland made his decision to step down in 1978.

During his years as an assistant to both Johnson and Eastland, Barber says he established friendships with black leaders in the state as their contact man to reach either the governor or the senator. He's counting on some of those old ties to the black leadership to help him with the black vote against Cochran.

Many believe that Nielsen Cochran largely won the PSC job four years ago because of his relationship to Sen. Cochran. As it was, Nielsen only won by a little over 500 votes in a controversial race with Democrat Michael Raff.

On election day in November, 1983, thousands of bogus Democratic sample ballots were circulated in black precincts showing Cochran as part of the Democratic ticket. Raff backers claimed foul, but filed no legal action after the election.

CONFERENCE WILL ADDRESS PROBLEMS OF TEENAGE ILLITERACY

A Nov. 17 conference at Jackson's Holiday Inn Downtown on "Literacy and Economic Success for Teenage Women: A Shared Vision" will focus upon the link between illiteracy and welfare dependency for teenage women.

"Representatives of the public, private and voluntary sectors will, with teenage women, address literacy issues, employment training and personal development," said Ruth D. Wilson, director of the Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation (OVCP) Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs. "Illiteracy can rob the human spirit of its self-respect, courage, desire and drive for success. It also kills countless opportunities to better oneself monetarily, socially and personally."

The conference will be sponsored by OVCP and the Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, Atlanta. Mrs. Wilson said a goal of the conference is to bring together representatives of educational institutions, public schools, human services, business and religion with families and teenage women to address the challenge of salvaging the lives of thousands of illiterate and semi-literate teenage women who are currently "condemned to public dependency."

"We want to demystify the feminization of poverty," she said. "We want to show its causes, its effects on teen women and the long-term effects on families. We also want to find possible cures."

A second purpose of the conference is to discuss the impact of teen pregnancy and school dropouts on Mississippi and to seek ways to alleviate these problems.

Conference participants will include former Gov. William Winter, who will discuss "Political Choices and Economic Outcomes." Delores Crockett, regional administrator for the Women's Bureau, and Ken Baker, assistant to the secretary of labor, will present the conference overview; Dr. Anna Lou Blevins, professor of education at the University of Pittsburgh, will deliver the keynote address; Chris Cherney, executive director of the Mississippi Children's Home Society and Family Services Association, will discuss "Family Support and Economic Success;" and Maggie Wade of WLBT-TV news will address "Values, Options and Goals: Helping Teens Choose Wisely."

Round table discussions will address a wide range of problems that teen women must confront.

Persons wishing to attend the conference should contact OVCP by Oct. 30 at 949-2059. A $15 registration fee will cover the conference and luncheon.

Dear Editor:

So the county cannot sell the old hospital. Why sell it? The county owns it. It has all utilities including phone, plenty parking, elevators for the handicapped, air and heat.

Knock out some walls to make space. Put in there Welfare, Senior Citizens, Social Security, Unemployment, Health Department in the lab section and any other county service, so there is only one place for a person seeking aid to go to, and modernization will cost the taxpayer a whole lot less than they are paying now.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

"No" to taxes

By Congressman
Trent Lott
5th District,
Mississippi

It is the season when politicians—both in Washington and Mississippi—have started talking taxes again. The question is: do you want your taxes raised? With only one exception that I can recall, my constituents have advised me that they don't want their taxes raised—particularly at the federal level.

There are good reasons for this opposition. In Washington the problem is not inadequate revenues but too much spending. And who pays for tax increases? Usually it is not the rich or the poor but the middle income worker: the shipyard worker, the masonite or Hercules plant worker, and the farmer.

Sometimes there are situations where people are willing to consider increased taxes for certain worthwhile programs, but then the question is, which taxes? There is general agreement that individual income taxes should not be raised. We just passed last year major changes and increases in business and corporate taxes, so there is little opportunity for finding revenues there.

The suggestions then turn to excise taxes: gasoline, tobacco, and alcohol. Here again, these taxes usually fall the heaviest on blue-collar workers. In Mississippi, the gasoline tax is especially tough, because so many of our workers drive long distances to the work site. Since excise taxes also are an important source of revenue for the states, the federal government should not get into that area any more than is absolutely necessary.

The bottom line remains that we should not start looking for new revenues until all possible spending cuts in federal programs have been obtained. I think we should at least freeze all spending, except for the trust funds, at last year's level. That would save billions of dollars!

In the House of Representatives this week, we have been trying to deal with the requirements of the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law. It is not easy to find $23 billion to reduce the deficit for fiscal year 1988 as it is called for under the law, and we are off to a rough start. The Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee say we cannot produce any more spending cuts. Therefore, they say most of the reductions will have to come from new taxes.

To that, I say, no thanks.

JSU to celebrate 110th Anniversary

Jackson State University will celebrate the 110th anniversary of its founding on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 15-16, 1987.

The two-day observance will begin with a Founders' Day Convocation at 10 a.m. in Dansby Hall Auditorium. The Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago will deliver the convocation address.

In August, Dr. Jackson donated $200,000 to establish an endowed chair in philosophy and social ethics during the summer commencement exercises at Jackson State. In 1983, he established a $50,000 lectureship series and scholarship program at the university.

Dr. Jackson is formerly the president of the 6.3 million-member national Baptist Convention, U.S.A.

Thursday's activities will be highlighted by the dedication of the School of Education Building in Dr. Jackson's honor and a name unveiling ceremony immediately after the convocation.

The annual Founders' Day Scholarship Banquet will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the General Purpose Room of the Jacob L. Reddix Campus Union.

Charles F. Moore of Chicago, a 1953 graduate of JSU, will deliver the banquet address. Moore, a self-made millionaire who owns a Chicago construction company and motel chain, recently established a $100,000 endowed scholarship fund at the university.

Banquet tickets are $15 and may be purchased from the JSU Office of Development. For ticket information, call 968-2282.

Anti litter

effort brings

wide response

A letter to the editor signed by Joe Pilet of Bay St. Louis and appearing in a recent issue of the Sun/Herald brought a cross section of responses from Coast residents and inward as far as Pineville, Pilet said.

In the letter Pilet complained that the Horizon paper caused litter, and where copies were not picked up but left lying in yards it was "an open invitation" for intruders.

Pilet said she received two telephone calls from Gordon G. Barta who is publisher and general manager of Progressive Marketing Services and distributor of Gulf Coast Horizon.

She said he was very polite and understanding and assured her the paper would no longer be delivered at her residence.

The City of Biloxi through its councilman, William Fluty of Ward 7, responded with a letter dated Oct. 6 and said: "We have the same problem with the Gulf Coast Horizon as you relate from Bay St. Louis. Many constituents complain to me of the problem."

In an attempt to solve the problem for Biloxi Fluty proposed an ordinance which was unanimously adopted to become effective on Friday, Oct. 16.

Penalty for violation is not less than $100 nor more than $500 for each conviction, Fluty said, and suggested that Bay St. Louis city officials might wish to consider following the City of Biloxi's lead.

Pilet said she turned all related correspondence over to the office of Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr.

Barta has stated that any persons not wishing to have The Gulf Coast Horizon should notify his company in writing or telephone toll free 1-801-388-2400 or 467-7799. "We will do our utmost to see that you do not receive advertising material in the future," Barta promised.

In turning the correspondence file over the Mayor Frankiewicz Pilet wrote, "It is my personal feeling that a serious anti-litter campaign made effective with fines or other penalties would greatly improve our quality of life and be of very real benefit to our community."

A Team for Troubled Youth

During the teen years, man's timeless search for the deeper meaning of life begins. Unfortunately, more and more teenagers in today's society are coming up empty-handed.

Grappling with emerging sexuality and a need for more independence is tough enough. But now there are confusing world events, increased promiscuity, an epidemic of substance abuse and sometimes, family turmoil.

For many teens, stress soon becomes distress. Their inability to cope may appear as depression, aggression, extreme hostility or substance abuse. If ignored, these new bad habits and outlooks can last a lifetime.

CPC Sand Hill Hospital treats only teens. Our confidential treatment includes:

- A Complete Treatment Team. Together, they help lead your teen back towards a happy and productive life.
- A Year-Round Educational Program. Certified teachers work with teenagers and their schools to help maintain their scholastic level during treatment.

- Spiritual Therapy. A non-denominational approach that emphasizes a teenager's own uniqueness. Oftentimes, chemical dependency or severe behavioral problems are masking an underlying lack of self-esteem.
- Aftercare sessions. Following completion of our treatment program, adolescents join their families in weekly forums for family communication and problem solving.

If you think your teen needs our team pulling for him, call for a free evaluation. Don't ignore a troubled youth's cries for attention.

HARBOR DRIVE FIRE—BaySide Park volunteer firefighters try to extinguish flames at the residence of Jerry O'Neal Esteves on Harbor Drive in Bayou Phillip Community. According to Hancock County-Waveland Fire Marshall Jay Marsh, Esteves told authorities an air-conditioning unit in the home had a spliced cord and that he had had some trouble with the unit, but an investigation has not revealed whether the Tuesday afternoon fire resulted from electrical problems. No one was home at the time of the fire, which occurred about 2 p.m., and flames were already coming through the roof of the structure when the blaze was reported, Cindy Guillot of the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department said. Assisting at the scene were East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department, Waveland Fire Department, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Coast Electric. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Southern Choices Growing With New Crape Myrtles

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Crape myrtles are probably the most widely planted large flowering shrubs or small trees in the South.

These plants are popular because their dark green, glossy leaves, attractive upright form, colorful flowers and long period of summer bloom make the plants excellent landscape choices. Crape myrtles appear to be able to survive and bloom year after year with total neglect and under the worst of conditions as long as they receive full sun. This plant, mostly taken for granted and relatively insect and disease free except for aphids and mildew, has been the object of some rather intensive plant breeding efforts to improve it over the years.

Breeding and selection efforts have resulted in new varieties of the small tree types as well as dwarf crape myrtles that are ideal as border, low growing ground cover shrubs and container plants. The U.S. National Arboretum in Washington, D.C., has been a major developer of new crape myrtles and has over the years introduced 23 unique, distinct and noteworthy varieties. Six of these have recently been introduced to the nursery trade. They carry the names: Apalachee, Comanche, Lipan, Osage, Sioux and Yuma.

The six new varieties are of particular interest to crape myrtle lovers and the nursery and landscape industries because they are the first crape myrtles to combine mildew resistance, an interesting array of bark colorations and a range of flower colors.

The six varieties are the result of breeding efforts begun in 1965 at the National Arboretum involving the crape myrtles we all know and a closely related, but rare, Japanese species that served as the source of mildew resistance and bark coloration. After years of observation and trials, the six selections were chosen during the time period 1973 to 1979 because of their growth form, lush summer foliage, autumn coloration and mass floral display from June to September. After additional years of observation and trial they were released in 1984 to nurseries cooperating with the National Arboretum for trial and increase. They are now being introduced to the nursery and landscape industries as well as the general public.

The mature height of the six varieties ranges from 13 to almost 18 feet with upright, outward arched branches. Mature specimens are large shrubs or small trees with open trunks and broad spreading crowns. They are winter hardy at Washington, D.C., and have withstood temperatures as low as minus 9 degrees F. Temperatures this low will kill or severely injure the South's most common crape myrtles. The cultural conditions for growing these new crape myrtles are similar to those for the crape myrtles Southerners already grow; full sun, a clay-loam soil and a soil pH of 5.0 to 6.5.

Apalachee has light lavender flowers and the branches have a medium-brown bark. Comanche has dark coral pink florets and light sandalwood bark. Lipan has medium lavender flowers and a trunk bark that is near white at first and turns to a light beige. Osage bears light pink flowers and has dark brown trunk bark. Sioux has dark pink flowers and medium gray-brown bark. The last of the six new varieties, Yuma, has medium lavender flowers that fade to purple. The bark is gray.

The foliage of the six varieties is green during the spring and summer and changes with the cool fall temperatures. The leaves of Apalachee turn dull orange to russet to dark red. Those of Comanche go from green to dark orange red to dark purple red. Lipan has leaves that become light orange to russet to dull red while those of Osage turn red to dark red. The leaves of Sioux become light maroon to bright red and those of Yuma turn dull yellow orange to russet to light mahogany. It is possible that the array of colors and color intensity may not develop in the South as in the Washington, D.C., area because of the warmer fall temperatures.

The fact that the release of these six new crape myrtle varieties has been announced does not mean that they are going to be easy to find at local garden centers or nurseries in Mississippi. Crape myrtle lovers, nurserymen and landscape architects are going to have to wait for the nurseries cooperating with the National Arboretum to increase these new varieties. Fortunately this process is already underway.

Weekly State Crop Report

Weather plays havoc with pasture growth

Farmers may have to struggle to find suitable grazing for their livestock because of problems caused by dry weather and early frost.

Lack of rain has dried out summer pastures intended for fall grazing and prevented farmers from planting winter grazing crops. Early frosts in October have caused some sorghum grasses to release a chemical by-product poisonous to grazing livestock.

"We're about two to three weeks behind in our planting," said Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "The soils have been so dry that farmers haven't been able to do much land preparation."

October is usually a transition period for grazing. Livestock graze on pastures grown during summer while farmers plant winter grazing crops. As livestock finish grazing on summer pastures, winter grazing becomes available.

"Because the summer pastures are so dried out, some farmers are having to cut into their winter hay supplies," Kimbrough said. "Eventually this could cause some farmers to have a shortage of hay this winter and an increase in the cost of production because farmers will have to buy hay."

Other farmers have turned their livestock into grain sorghum fields to graze on stubble left over from harvest. Early frosts on the stubble regrowth cause sorghum plant cells to rupture. When the cells rupture, they release prussic (hydrocyanic) acid.

Livestock ingest the acid which reduces the ability of their blood to carry oxygen. They die of suffocation caused by cyanide poisoning.

"Farmers need to be aware before they let their cattle out if there has been a good freeze the night before," Kimbrough said. "These fields need to be given time to dry out after a freeze before they are grazed."

In other agricultural news, county agents report the dry weather has been a blessing to farmers who are harvesting crops. To those who are trying to grow winter wheat and grazing crops, it's frustrating.

Cotton yields in Washington and Tallahatchie counties have been excellent, with some farmers having 900-pound or better lint yield per acre. "The gins are bottlenecked with trailers, and modules are in fields by the hundreds," said Art Smith, Washington County agent.

Kmart begins expansion

By ELLIS CUEVAS

An addition of 10,000 square feet of selling area was begun on Monday at Kmart in Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center in Waveland.

Michael Bettis, Kmart's Choctaw Plaza general manager said the store's interior will also be completely re-painted and re-fitted.

"A new register system will also be added in order to maintain a better selection of goods," Bettis added.

Waveland's Kmart opened in November of 1980 and currently has 56,000 square feet of merchandising area.

The expansion will make the store have 66,000 square feet of merchandising area in addition to a large stockroom.

The addition will enable the Waveland store to offer customers an expanded apparel department, domestics center, home center, electronics center, kitchen corner, garden supply, sports and auto supplies in addition to a new life styles department, Bettis stated.

The expanded store should include several new jobs Bettis allowed.

Contractor for the project is Brice Construction of Metairie, La. and the new addition and renovations are scheduled to take five months, Bettis said.

This is the first Kmart Store on the Mississippi Gulf Coast to be enlarged, Bettis commented; adding his company is now active in opening new stores and enlarging existing stores in many cities.

Kmart currently has 2,203 stores in the United States and Puerto Rico.

Drills conducted during Fire Prevention Week

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Fire Department joined fire departments nationwide in participating in National Fire Prevention Week by conducting school drills and teaching special fire prevention.

Some 2,011 students in Bay St. Louis from pre-school through high school participated in drills and special classes for younger students, Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said.

"Several teachers were given special instructions in handling fire extinguishers in controlling various types of fires," Lizana said.

Lizana stated, "Fire prevention is a year-round project and all citizens should have fire extinguishers in their homes and businesses and know how to use them."

Lizana added, "Any homeowner in need of help in planning escape routes for their family or seeking information on the use of fire extinguishers are asked to call the Bay Fire Department's business telephone number 467-4736," Lizana said.

Residents can receive a free window sticker for bed-ridden, paraplegics, and infants from the Bay Fire Department at the intersection of Old Spanish Trail and Bookter Street.

"These stickers are very important to firefighters, as it will help them in rescue procedures in case of a fire," Lizana added.

"Fire prevention is something we must practice every day of the year and our department is here to serve the public, and if there is any way the fire department can be of assistance, please give us a call," Lizana emphasized.

Jaws of Life had to be used to open the car to free Monday and to remove Kendall's body, an officer on the scene stated.

Those assisting state troopers included NASA Fire Department Rescue Unit, Mobile Medic Ambulance Service, Waveland Police Department, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department.

State Trooper Houston Dorr is in charge of the investigation.

The four people involved in the accident all reportedly worked at Shoney's in Slidell, the highway patrol spokesman said.

The cause of the accident remains to be determined, and final reports on the cause of death for Kendall, Griffith and Barnes are not yet available.

Post 77 slates annual awards banquet

Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77 of The American Legion in Waveland will host its annual awards banquet Saturday, Oct. 17 at the post home on Coleman Avenue.

The Hancock County "Citizen of the Year" will be announced, and an award will be presented to the winner of that honor.

Many organizations in Hancock County have submitted names of nominees, and a selection committee will select a winner after comparing the resumes of those nominated, according to Erby Cazaubon, awards chairman.

Special awards will also be presented by Post 77 and Unit 77 of the Ladies Auxiliary to selected members of the post and other citizens of the area for outstanding service to the post and the community.

Cazaubon said the evening activities will include cocktails from 6:30 to 7 p.m., dinner at 8 p.m. and a BYOL dance beginning at 8:30 p.m. with music from the post juke-box.

Admission for the event is $3 per person, and the public is invited. Tickets are available at Post 77 or by calling 467-9637.

ASCS Reports

"Farmers are asked to nominate candidates of their choice by Nov. 2 to be on the ASC Community committee ballot," says Franklin A. Gennin, GED.

The ASC Community committee election will be conducted from Nov. 27 to Dec. 7 by mail ballot. The five ASC communities in Pearl River County are: A, B, C, D, E and the three ASC communities in Hancock County are F, G and H.

ASC committees are responsible for managing federal farm programs on the local level. To meet the needs of individual producers, ASC committee members must be concerned and responsible individuals, Gennin said.

Pearl River and Hancock County farmers have the opportunity to nominate persons they feel would best serve the farm community. Farmers will receive petition forms by mail in the next few days and will be submitting them to the county ASCS office.

A few basic considerations should be kept in mind when circulating petitions, Gennin said. In order to be valid, petitions must be limited to one nominee each, must include written Farmers certification that the nominee is willing to serve if elected, must be signed by at least three eligible farm voters in the ASC community and must be received in the county ASCS office by the November 2 deadline.

Farmers may circulate or sign nominating petitions for as many candidates as they choose. Anyone wishing to nominate a farmer for the ASC committee election may contact the county ASCS office for full details, including eligibility requirements for office holders.

Farmers should petition for and elect those individuals they feel would do a good job as a member of the ASC committee. The election of concerned farmers to positions on ASC committees is essential in the administration of farm programs", Gennin said.

Gennin further explained that the county ASCS office welcomes all valid petitions. The opportunity to nominate, vote, and be elected to office is guaranteed to all farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, age, color, handicap or national origin.

BOUNDARIES SET FOR ELECTIONS

On Aug. 3 the Pearl River-Hancock County ASC Committees reviewed and set community boundaries for the ASCS community committee elections to be held between Nov 27 and Dec. 7.

"This is one of the first steps in administering the annual ASC farm committee elections," said Franklin A. Gennin, CED.

He said that in compliance with changes required by the Food Security Act of 1985 the ASC committee set boundaries around ASC local administrative areas that help provide farmers with effective farm program administration through local representation.

Pearl River-Hancock Counties are divided into three local administrative areas this year. Only LAA number 2 in Pearl River and LAA Number 1 in Hancock will have an election.

A list of ASC communities, a boundary map, and the number of farms within each community are available to the public at Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office. The ASC communities are as follows:

Pearl River—A, B, C, D, and E.
Hancock County—F, G, and H.

Other events concerning the upcoming election will be announced as they occur. Participation in ASC elections is open to all eligible farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, color, handicap, or national origin.

WHEAT ACREAGE

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will begin accepting applications for the 1988 wheat acreage reduction program on Oct. 19th. The acreage reduction requirement is 27.5 percent, the same as in 1987.

"Wheat producers who meet this requirement and report crop acres will be eligible to receive price support loans and deficiency payments," county ASCS official Franklin A. Gennin said. Program participants will be required to maintain an Acreage Conservation Reserve (ACR) equal to 37.93 percent of their planted acres.

The 1988 Wheat Program offers price support loans at a national average price of $2.17 per bushel and target price protection at a rate of $4.29 per bushel.

Gennin said actual crop yields from 1987 through 1989 will not be used to establish farm program payment yields from 1988 through 1990.

As in 1987, farmers who plant at least 50 percent of their permitted acreage to wheat and devote the remaining permitted acreage to conserving uses will be eligible to receive deficiency payments on 92 percent of the permitted acreage," Gennin said. Neither will the production of alternate crops on ACR be permitted, he said.

Grazing of designated conservation use land will be permitted upon the request of the Mississippi ASC Committee. Haying will not be permitted except under emergency conditions, according to Gennin.

Additional details on these and other 1988 wheat program provisions may be obtained from the local ASCS office.

Once recycling was not an industry, a cult or an art form. It was a way of life in Mississippi in the 1930's, when the cash flow was not a flow at all—more a trickle or drip.

Only we thought it was "making do." In some form "making do" was practiced by all—black and white, young and old, male and female, country folk and town folk alike.

The real trick was not just doing without what you couldn't afford but concealing the fact that you were doing it.

My grandmother was a master at "making do." She had all the "right stuff," having been brought up on a farm which was too far from town to permit the buying of replacements, even when there was the money to purchase them.

And she was highly motivated because she had an almost religious zeal about maintaining the appearance of "gentility."

She lived by a code that permitted you to be cold or hot or hungry or worn out or even sick, but you dared not show it.

From her we learned the mysteries of RIT dye: yellow covers only white; green streaks; navy blue and red cover well but fade where they touch your body.

We discovered that a shirt can be lowered three inches by ripping out the waistband and facing it, that anything an adult wears can be remade into a suitable garment for a child (of either sex), that frayed shirt cuffs and collars can be turned, a tattered tablecloth can be made into a dozen napkins; and best of all, nobody will know the difference.

We were taught to split worn-out sheets into little sheets to fit the cots we slept on in the summertime on the sleeping porch. The bottoms were stitched to slip on like pillow cases. I like to think we had the first fitted sheets. Even Grandmother admitted that our cook Cora was better at "making do" in the kitchen than she was. Cora's great genius lay in stretching without skimping (an unforgivable sin).

First of all, she was a "wet" cook. And everyone knows that if you make the best biscuits in the world and have enough gravy you can feed an army.

All her chicken—fried, stewed, or baked—provided gravy.

Ham gravy was a natural, always served with grits (the world's greatest filler).

Beef pot roast, country-fried pork chops, squirrel or rabbit stew, and spring lamb provided gravy fit for a king.

Even bacon yielded tomato gravy at breakfast. Then vegetables provided pot likker, which we were allowed to "spill" on our corn bread.

And one of my personal favorites was black-eyed peas over rice.

There was always rice to spare at every meal that I can remember.

The more you had left over, the better. At the next meal it would appear for dessert as rice pudding or "sweet rice."

Women were not the only ones who were good at "making do." The men in our family were just as good at it, but they made no attempts at concealment.

There was no elaborate assortment of tools. My Uncle Joe could fix anything in the world with a hammer, pliers, a screw driver, and a little wire. He was particularly good at water pipes.

Every winter the men would get under the house, which stood a good three feet off the ground, and wrap the pipes; and every winter, in spite of precautions like turning off the water and draining the pipes, a couple would "bust." And under the house would go Uncle Joe.

When he wasn't under the house, he was on top of the house, working on the roof. The ceilings on the third floor had water marks from the leaks, and the wallpaper would come undone, but Grandmother would make flour paste and back in place it would go.

While Uncle Joe was fixing pipes and the roof, my father and older male cousins were usually busy working on cars or mending the fences that restrained the hunting dogs and Grandmother's chickens.

Almost every day of my young life began with somebody announcing that the car wouldn't crank or the chickens were in the garden or the dogs were loose.

Later on in the morning the car would be running, the chickens would be behind wire, and the dogs caught.

Sometimes one of these cars would run a while and stop, and then there would be lots of pushing by all the men while one of the older boys guided and slipped the clutch.

Even today, I suppose I believe that any car on earth will run if you push it far enough.

When one of these ancient vehicles did reach the point where no amount of home-repair would restore it to running order, it would be towed to a paid mechanic.

When even that failed, it was hauled home and into the shed. There it served as a parts supply source for the rest of the cars that belonged to members of the family who were "staying" at Grandmother's until times got better, just as we were.

Trash disposal at Grandmother's was no problem. We saved everything—boxes, string, paper bags, rubber bands, tin foil, hooks and eyes, bottles, wrapping paper, ribbons off candy boxes, ties, bows, jars.

Grandmother had a box or drawer cabinet full of these items, ready in case the need for one might arise.

Nothing was wasted. Absolutely nothing.

Wasting according to Grandmother, was not only sinful; it was "trashy."

Even ashes out of the fire places were sprinkled under the fig trees. Leaves were raked up and piled at the edge of the lot in the ditch; and were later used under the bushes.

Garbage was collected by a man Uncle Joe knew who kept pigs. Garbage, we identified, as what people, chickens, dogs, or cats could not eat.

By the time I was old enough to realize that "making do" wasn't an ideal way of life, "times" had gotten better, and all of us had peeled off into houses of our own.

By that time, "making do" was so deeply imprinted into our soul that we kept doing pretty much what we'd always done and trying very hard not to appear "trashy."

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

Culling the Cow Herd

It's that time of the year when many beef cow owners are evaluating the performance of their animals. The most convenient time for evaluating or "culling" the herd is when the calves are weaned. For spring-calving cows, this is in the fall before producers give them supplemental feed.

Before the owner can decide what animals to cull from the herd, two priorities must be established. The owner must decide which production traits are most desirable and what priority should be given to each trait.

The minimum level of performance for each cow to be judged must be determined by the owner. The performance level may differ from herd to herd because of expansion or reduction of herd size. In herds where the number of animals is constant, a cow must meet two minimums: she should wean a calf and she should rebreed early in the breeding season.

Soils and Fertilizers

Fall is preferable for submitting soil samples to the Extension soil testing laboratory. Turn-around time is faster in the fall, and results are obtained in time to make detailed plans for fertilizing fields.

If lime is needed, the application is more effective if done in the fall, rather than spring.

Be sure you collect a good sample. Sample to a depth of 6 inches and from at least 20-30 randomly selected areas in a field. The number one problem in soil sample collection is taking soil from too few areas in a field.

Forest Products Week

Over the past 25 years—since the first baby boomers in Hancock County entered high school—a remarkable thing has happened to American forests. They have grown to contain 100 billion cubic feet more wood than they did in 1962.

The resulting growth is a renewable American resource capable of furnishing an important raw material for our rising domestic use and also for expanding worldwide demand.

National Forest Products Week, to be observed Oct. 19-23, is sponsored by the nation's forestry community to remind us of the role wood products have in everyday life. We also need to be aware of the timber industry's need for productive and healthy forests so this increasing demand for wood products can be met.

We need for everyone to know about good forest management and to make the link between products we use and our nation's vast forest resources.

Child care credit cuts taxes for divorced, separated parents

Divorced or separated parents who pay others to care for their children who are under age 15 may be eligible for a Federal income tax credit, the Internal Revenue Service says. The child and dependent care credit provides a tax break for persons who pay someone to look after their children while they work.

The maximum credit is 30 percent of qualifying work-related expenses if the taxpayer's adjusted gross income is $10,000 or less. If adjusted gross income is above $10,000, the credit percentage is reduced. It is reduced one percent for each $2,000, or part of $2,000, of adjusted gross income above $10,000 until it reaches 20 percent for incomes above $28,000.

The maximum amount of child care expenses that may be used to figure the credit, regardless of the applicable percentage, can be no more than $2,400 for one qualifying child, and $4,800 for two or more qualifying children.

The child may be cared for inside or outside the home, but the principal reason for the child care must be to permit the parent to work or look for work.

For divorced and separated parents, the parent who had custody for a longer time during the calendar year can claim the credit. The child does not have to be a dependent. However, the child must have:

- Been under 15, or not able to care for himself or herself, and
- Been in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, and

—Received more than half of his or her support from one or both parents.

Generally, a person who is married at the end of the tax year must file a joint return to claim the child care credit. A person who is legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance is not considered married and may claim the credit on a separate return, the IRS says. However, individuals living apart from their spouse but not legally separated may claim the credit on a separate return only if their child lived with them for more than half the year and they paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home for the year. The spouse must have lived outside that home for the last six months of the year, the IRS says.

Persons wanting to know more about the child care credit can obtain free IRS Publication 503, "Child and Dependent Care Credit, and Employment Taxes for Household Employers," by calling 1-800-424-FORM (3676) or the IRS "Forms Only" number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

Mounting forest wildfire danger has forestry officials worried

State Forestry Commission personnel are gearing up for what some are predicting may be the worst fall wildfire season in ten years.

Nearly 135 wildfires swept across 1,100 acres of Mississippi timber and brushland over the past weekend. Escaped fires from the burning of fields and fires started along bone dry roadsides have so far accounted for most of the wildfires. The weekend of Oct. 17-18 will increase the hazard as thousands of hunters take to the woods to open the squirrel season.

State Forester Robert S. "Sid" Moss said the State's wildfire season usually doesn't arrive until early November and ends with the Spring rains and green-up of the countryside in April.

"An early and sustained fire season is the very last thing we need in Mississippi at this time," Moss declared.

He noted that the Commission was hoping to set a new all-time record for tree planting this coming Winter due to a surge of reforestation activity brought on by the Conservation Reserve Program and several Federal and State forestry cost-sharing programs. But Moss said low rainfall and a busy wildfire season could seriously complicate their reforestation plans.

"Our people can't plant trees and fight carelessly or maliciously set wildfires at the same time. We have to give priority to protecting the timber and homes we already have," Moss stated.

The State Forester issued a plea to all Mississippians who plan outdoor burning during the current and upcoming high fire danger periods to exercise extreme caution and prepare good control lines before striking the first match.

He said a phone call to the local firetower or County Forester's Office to get advice on the latest fire weather would also be a smart move.

"Some days it's just absolutely foolish to burn outdoors," Moss added. "We can warn them when those times occur, or appear imminent." "We'll stop issuing burning permits if the fire danger situation worsens and people continue to show carelessness in burning debris," said the State Forester, but right now we are hoping that people will start using good sense with their fires and we won't have to shut down all legal burning in the State.

No significant rainfall is expected in the State for the next week to ten days.

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center

If the thought of a hurricane causes you concern over possible damage to your home or personal property, it may be time for you to review and update your homeowners coverage with your insurance agent.

When you review and update your coverage, remember to use your home insurance dollars to first protect against risks that would result in major financial losses to your family. Read your insurance policies and know what you are covered for.

Pay particular attention to policy exclusions and limitations. Ask your agent to explain anything you do not understand. For general questions about homeowners coverage, you may call the Insurance Information Institute's consumer hotline toll free (800) 221-4954.

You will also want to keep in mind the following:

1. Know how to file a claim before an accident happens.
2. Have an inventory list ready when you need it.
3. Report any theft or vandalism to the police. You will need a complaint number from the police before your insurer will act.

4. Keep the receipts for motel rooms, meals and extra transportation should you have to stay somewhere else because of a disaster. You can expect reimbursement for your living expenses.

5. Try to make temporary repairs and protect your property from further damage.

Insurance adjusters try to be fair, but sometimes mistakes happen. If you disagree with the settlement offer, talk it over with your agent. If you are still dissatisfied, contact George Dale, Commissioner of Insurance, at 359-3582.

Dinosaurs roam the Earth; Superman soars through the sky; the fearless foursome forge ahead to the land of Oz; and just when you thought it safe to go back into the water... jaws jump out! These are just a few of the many great Halloween costume patterns available this year.

What better way to show your love for your children than by making their dreams come true before their very eyes. And think of the fun—making a Halloween costume will bring out the child in you, too.

Most Halloween costume patterns are fast and easy to make. For novice homeseers, this project will safety and comfort. Sized to accommodate clothing underneath, they'll keep your child warm during those chilly October days. Easy care, easy wear fabrics, such as felt, satin and cotton are suggested. Remember, you can make the final choice based on price, quality and comfort.

Let your children select their costumes. If they're very young, go through bedtime stories with them. If they're older, you won't have to do much more than ask for a few choices. Then forge ahead to the fabric store together.

Introduce your children to creativity. Browse through pattern books together. Encourage them to look at and touch fabrics. Help them make a color choice. Let your imaginations go wild—there are no limits when you're sewing your own costumes.

Are you adventurous? Have you ever wanted to try your hand at design? Soar into the space-age. With the multitude of buttons, buckles, belts and bric-a-brac, you can transform your children into the mutants, aliens and space heroes of their wildest dreams. Turn ordinary clothing into futuristic fashion.

Costumes are not only fun and easy to make, but give you control over costs, quality and fit. You can save home-sewn costumes for years. Alter them for younger children, lend them to friends, or simply save them as treasured memorabilia for you and your children to reminisce upon years later.

Home-sewn

be fun, fresh and fulfilling. Costume-making is also a wonderful way to teach children how to sew.

The following suggestions from the Sewing Fashion Council in New York are based on 1987 Halloween costume patterns.

Watch out! Witches, ghosts, devils, skeletons and pumpkins will haunt your neighborhood in greater numbers than ever before. These traditional spooks are favorites of all kids, and they're simple to make.

For infants and toddlers, bears are big, but don't forget bugs, bunnies and Bugs Bunny. Animal costumes made out of fake fur or fleece are cute, cuddly and make for crawling.

Looney Tunes and Disney characters, Superman and sorcerers are the latest and greatest in costume patterns sized for adults as well as children. Looking for a father-son combo? Pinocchio and Gepetto are a winning team. Take your kids trick-or-treating in matching costumes and live out their dreams with them.

Dinosaurs rebound to the 20th century in all their glory! And this year there are three species to choose from. Get together with your neighbors and have a dinosaur party. The entire family can go back in to the past.

For brother-sister teams, try Tinkerbell and Peter Pan, Donald Duck and Daisy Duck, Mickey Mouse and Minnie Mouse, Raggedy Ann and Andy or Porky Pig and Petunia. And for those terrific toddlers, there's a Supergirl and Superboy pattern that doubles as sleepwear.

If you have two boys or girls, take a look at Sylvester and Tweety, Dopey and Grumpy or Daffy Duck and Road Runner—this year's whimsical unisex choices.

The patterns are designed for

QUALIFICATIONS:

Licensed to practice law in all Missouri Courts, Federal District Courts, Federal Courts of Appeal, and the United States Supreme Court. After 41 years of general practice he is presently in semi-retirement.

For 13 years before retirement he served as Managing Attorney of Legal Services of Eastern Missouri. In this position he supervised senior law students of St. Louis University Law School and Washington University Law School in preparation and presentation of cases before State and Federal Courts.

ORGANIZATIONS:

Clarke, a native of Bay St. Louis, is a member of the Mound City, Missouri and National Bar Associations; National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and Knights of Columbus. He is a member of St. Rose De Lima Catholic Church.

EDUCATION:

He attended St. Rose De Lima, Bay St. Louis, and Xavier Prep in New Orleans. He earned his B.A. from Xavier University in Louisiana. He received his law degree from Lincoln University Law School in Missouri.

Would you ask even the best seamstress to be your family surgeon? Would you ask a master plumber to be the principal of our high school? Should we then ask anyone but a qualified person to be a judge for our county?

The training of a lawyer is the result of 19 years of formal education before taking the Bar Examination, and still some fail the examination.

Every judge should be trained in legal matters. He should be professional. Citizens required to appear before a court of law deserve no less. The court system of the county deserves the best legal minds available to render an immediate just and fair judgement. It is less expensive for the individual and the county than an appeal process due to ignorance of the law of legal process.

I have been involved with cases all over the country helping other people. I am now back home and want to serve the people of Hancock County. Do you want me? Are you ready?...I am.

HOUSE DESTROYED—A Harbor Drive residence continues to smoke Monday afternoon as firefighters finish putting out the flames. The two-story wooden home belonged to Jerry Esteves of Bayou Phillips, who was not home at the time of the blaze. Hancock County Fire Marshall Jay Marsh is still investigating whether or not the fire started from electrical problems related to a faulty air conditioner. The fire was extinguished by the BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department with mutual aid from West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department and Waveland Fire Department. BaySide reportedly ran out of water and had to summon assistance, but before responding Waveland had to refill a truck after assisting Bay St. Louis on three woods fires the same afternoon. However, BaySide spokesperson Cindy Guillot said it is unlikely the house could have been saved anyway because the flames had already burst through the roof before the blaze was reported. ## Former Boy Scout employee at Salem Reservation charged with unnatural intercourse

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A two-month long investigation into an incident at a Boy Scout camp in north Hancock County has led to arrest of a "well-known man" from Terrebonne Parish, La.

Steven Allen Adams, 32, of 309 Isle of Cuba Road, Schriber, La., was arrested Tuesday and charged with two counts of unnatural intercourse with a 15-year-old juvenile.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Wednesday, Adams is reportedly an influential person in Terrebonne Parish, a well-known figure in several civic organizations and an auxiliary sheriff's deputy.

The incident leading to Adams' arrest, allegedly occurred July 15 at Camp Salem Scout Reservation in the Standard Community, when he was serving as a health officer at a summer camp session, Peterson said.

Adams had an initial appearance in 32nd Judicial District Court Wednesday in Terrebonne Parish where he refused extradition.

Bond was set at $15,000 and Adams remained in jail Wednesday.

Hancock County officials are conferring with the district attorney's office to begin extradition proceedings.

Peterson said the investigation had been coordinated with the main office of Boy Scouts of America in Gretna, La.

"We had full cooperation from the Boy Scouts office," he added.

Peterson also reported Adams had been previously charged and convicted in Port Heuneme, Calif. for a homosexual act of oral copulation with a juvenile.

Following this conviction, Adams was sentenced to a 36-month probation in 1974, Peterson added.

The investigation remains underway and there may be other charges, he said.

"We are continuing the investigation to determine if there were any more victims involved," Peterson stated.

Sheriff's office cracking down on license violators

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Hancock County law enforcement officers are conducting an intensive program to catch violators of state drivers' license and car license regulations.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Wednesday numerous tickets have already been written for violations and officers will continue to check for these violations.

"We are going to enforce laws dealing with out-of-state tags and drivers' licenses," he said.

According to Peterson, the law requires any person who has been a resident for 30 days to get a Mississippi tag. Sixty days is allowed to get a Mississippi drivers' license.

"We encourage all area residents to get their tags and drivers' licenses up to date," he added.

"Special emphasis will be given to Hancock residents who are driving vehicles with Louisiana license plates," Peterson said.

He also said driver's of vehicles with only one working headlight should have these repaired immediately.

$5,000 in computer equipment will have to be added. In addition, the county must pay Sims $1,200 per month and mileage for the project.

supervisors does not delay action on the matter.

Sims said one of the reasons implementation of Enhanced 911 takes so long is that the equipment has to be "manufactured from scratch."

It takes about one year to obtain the computer equipment to be installed at whatever emergency agency or agencies are selected to take the 911 calls, as well as to provide specialized phone lines.

The maps, which had to be verified and corrected before being computerized, proved to be useful for more than one purpose when the project was done in Harrison County, Sims added.

"We found in Harrison County that everyone in the courthouse is using this information. It turned out to be very valuable," he said.

There may be a few problems in verifying the maps in Hancock County, Sims said, because the U.S. Bureau of Census has reported some problems in its work there.

One problem is a number of unnamed roads in rural areas, whether they are public or private roads, but that problem is expected to be corrected through the project.

"Our greatest problem in implementing E-911 has been getting the public officials to understand what's needed to get their systems and then to get their support," Sims explained.

"Many of them seem to feel it's just like getting a phone installed and South Central Bell will take care of it, but there are many, many details that have to be attended to," he added.

Sims and Murtagh are trying to set up meetings with Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith and other officials involved in E-911 implementation in Harrison County in order to gather any information that may be helpful in starting a Hancock County system.

Yacht Club honors Bay-Waveland sailors

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club recently held its annual Sailing Awards Banquet where 31 awards were presented and individuals were recognized for significant local, regional, national and international achievements in the sport of sailing. Sailing awards were announced by BWYC Race Committee Chairman Edgar W. Santa Cruz III and former Commodore Basil T. Kennedy while they were presented by Commodore Walter G. Chamberlain and special presenters, former Commodore Charles A. Breath III, former Commodore Ray H. Stieffel Jr., R. Gordon Boh and Mrs. Iva Mae McDonald.

One of the highlights of the BWYC sailing season was winning the Sir Thomas J. Lipton Cup Regatta for the 12th time against 23 GYA Yacht Club challengers.

Lipton Cup competition began 68 years ago in 1920 in the Gulf Yachting Association and as of this year, only Southern Yacht Club has more victories than Bay-Waveland Yacht Club with 14 wins and three ties.

BWYC won the four-race series decisively with finishes of 1-1-6-1 and a low point score of 8 1/4 points.

Winning team skippers were Peter Merrifield, Marc Eagan, Randy Santa Cruz and Dennis Stieffel with crew members Mac Hadden, Liz Merrifield, Bubby Eagan, Janet Gordon and Rene Dupaquier.

Pensacola Yacht Club placed second with a score of 16 and 3/4 points and will host the prestigious sailing event on Labor Day Weekend, 1988.

Another primary highlight was competing in and placing 6th in the King Edward VII International Match Racing Championship hosted by the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club.

The invitation to participate in this event came as a result of the BWYC victory in 1986 when Marc Eagan, Randy Santa Cruz and Dennis Stieffel won the United States Match Racing Championship for the Prince of Wales Bowl.

The event was sailed in international six-meter yachts and Mac Hadden, in addition to Marc, Randy and Dennis, represented BWYC, the GYA and part of the United States as well as themselves.

It should be pointed out that the 6th place finish was very respectable, taking into consideration the world class competition of Chris Dickson of New Zealand, John Shadden of the U.S., Dave Perry of the U.S., Yasunori Hokimari of Japan, Dave Dellenbaugh of the U.S. and Gordon Lucas of Australia.

The award winners and those recognized for significant sailing achievements are as follows:

Outstanding individual efforts by prep football players cited

By EDGAR H. PEREZ
Hancock North Central halfback Terrance Goff scored touchdowns on kickoff returns of 90 and 95 yards Friday against the St. Martin Yellow Jackets, ran a 57-yard punt return for a score, and posted six more points on a 35-yard outside run. Based on his outstanding performance in the Hawks' 32-15 victory over the Jackets on their home turf in Jackson County, Goff was named 'Player of the Week' at HNC by the sponsors of the selection program. Loiacano's Health Club of Bay St. Louis and Rick's Trophies of Waveland underwrite the weekly awards to an outstanding player at each of the area's five high schools which participate in interscholastic football competition. In addition to Hancock North Central, the schools include Bay Senior High, St. Stanislaus, Pass Christian High and Coast Episcopal High School. Trophies will be presented to the winning players at their respective school football awards banquets at the end of the season. Selected from St. Stanislaus this week is Craig Sweeney, a junior defensive end who is credited with eight solo tackles in the Rocks' 35-13 loss to Poplarville. The sponsors said Sweeney 'turned in a real fine effort against Poplarville.' 'He was in on a number of tackles away from his side of the field, as well as making a number of big plays in the first half to stop scoring threats—he fought through some tough blocks to make big stops,' the judges said. In the Bay High Tiger victory over

Long Beach, Doug Rhodes scored on a 35-yard pass reception, snagged a key interception to set up a touchdown, and is cited for a 'good job on special team punt returns' to win 'Player of the Week' on his team. John Lizana, a six-foot five-inch, 260-pound senior defensive tackle for the Pass Christian Pirates, is credited with ten tackles after switching to linebacker to replace an injured teammate. The sponsors named Lizana as the outstanding Pirate this week for his efforts in the team's 7-0 loss to East Central. Offensive play which included 34 yards rushing and five pass completions in 20 attempts as well as 10 tackles on defense earned the honors this week at Coast Episcopal High School for senior quarterback Chris Riggs. The CEHS Raiders sustained a 51-6 loss at Cornerstone Academy in Baton Rouge.

Ducks Unlimited area chairman selected

Keith Ladner of Waveland has been appointed area chairman from the Hancock County Chapter of Ducks Unlimited, the world's largest waterfowl conservation organization. Ladner has volunteered to help DU raise money for waterfowl conservation by overseeing and coordinating fundraising events in the southern portion of Mississippi. 'Ducks Unlimited is so successful because of volunteers like Ladner,' says Matthew B. Connolly Jr., executive vice president of the 600,000-member organization. 'Our volunteers exhibit a spirit and willingness to work that is unparalleled in the private conservation arena.' For 50 years, Ducks Unlimited has been helping to conserve wetlands in North America. The greatest majority of its funds come from membership dinners throughout the country. DU's fund-raising goal for 1987 is $66.7 million. Mississippi raised $875,663 net in 1986, and has a goal of $968,813 net for 1987. DU has wetland conservation projects in Canada, Mexico and the United States. These projects make certain there is water available for waterfowl when they need it the most. 'With an annual loss of some 700,000 acres of wetlands in North America, Ducks Unlimited's job becomes more critical each year,' adds Connolly.

HANCOCK NORTH CENTRAL Defensive End Chris Lacoste (51) grabs St. Martin's Ernest Mosley in the backfield for a 14-yard-loss in Friday's match. The Hawk defeated their district rival, 32-15 and will take on

Hawks looking for sixth consecutive win this week

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Most people say will say it is going to be a blowout when an undefeated team with five wins to its credit is scheduled to play a team with a record of no wins and six losses.

This is what has Hancock North Central Hawk Coach Irvin Favre concerned.

This week the 5-0 Hawks will be playing at home against the winless Long Beach Bearcats.

"It is very hard to get a team mentally prepared when facing this situation because of all the outside influence that it will be an easy win," he said.

That record works on the minds of the opposing team members and it is a fact that on a given night, anybody can win, Favre said.

"The big thing is how the Hawks take the football game when they go into it," he said.

"And you must consider more than just a 0-6 team, because Long Beach is a 5A school and has played a tough schedule," Favre added.

He said the Bearcats opened their season against Gulfport and "played them pretty good."

The Long Beach team has some things that they do really well, Favre said.

An example of this is the "maximum effort" put forth in past games of blocking the punts, he added.

"They might send in eight people to block a punt," Favre said.

He also commented on the size of the linemen who have an average weight of more than 200 pounds.

"We also believe they are going to throw the ball a lot and they have a fairly good passing game," he said.

Favre listed Long Beach player Todd Sims, a senior running back and quarterback.

"Sims is a really good football player and makes them go," Favre said.

Hawks coaches are also concerned about what type of defense Long Beach is going to play.

"They are what we call a searching ballclub, that means they are looking for any way to win and they will search for things, pull trick plays and basically do things on defense that may really be unsound," Favre said.

"A team that does not have anything to lose will sometimes make unsound plays but sometimes this can make things happen for them," he added.

"If they catch you on the wrong spot on that unsound play they can really hurt you and I just hope they don't catch us napping," Favre continued.

In spite of the coaching concerns, the Hawks do have a few things going for them.

Among these are the motivation to maintain an undefeated record and a chance to climb in the state rankings of high school football teams where they are currently at No. 20.

Kickoff at the Hancock North Central field will be at 7:30 p.m.

Bay Area Youth Soccer initiates fall season

Bay Area Youth Soccer has gotten off to an exciting start in the fall season. The weather has been very cooperative, and the young men and women have begun to demonstrate the beauty and skill of this fast pace game.

Under 12

In under 12, Take-one Video is leading the pack, with two wins and no losses. CPC Design/Building is running a close second place, also with two wins.

Under 10

In under 10 play, the McDonald Realty Raiders have taken the lead with 1 win and 1 tie.

Coaches Mark Uram and Eddie Farve of the Raiders stated that the game was well played Saturday and they commended the Raiders on their tenacious play.

Goals were scored by Sanders Kane and Derick Bradley to tie Coach Flowers' K-Mart Rangers. Coach Richard Flowers stated that he was extremely proud of the Rangers and the fine job they did in Saturdays' game.

Goals were scored by Gregg Dhuy and David Flowers. Most valuable player for the defense was Mike Mancuso and for offense was Jason Chiniche.

Most improved players were Adam Uhles and Mark Gagon. Coach Flowers credited Assistant Coaches Paul Campo and Mike Bettis efforts with the marked improvement in the team play. Also in under 10 play Saturday, Coca Cola defeated Gateway Body Shop by a score of 6-1.

Coach Tim Kingston and Danny Patton congratulated the entire team for outstanding play. The coaches recognized Tim Kingston for four of the goals and Robbie Lumkin for the other two goals scored in the game.

Under 8

In under 8 play, the Gulf Coast Sweepers are leading with two wins thus far. Coach Richard Flowers' Rotary Strikers are in second place with one win and one tie.

Coach Flowers congratulated the entire Rotary team for a fine effort in Saturdays' game against Gary Yarbrough's Golden Eagle team which resulted in a 0-0 tie.

Even though the game was scoreless, it was a defensive struggle between the two teams with fine effort on both sides. Coach Yarbrough commended the fine defensive play by Chad Collier, Kent Conn, Christy Ladner and Justin Pucheu and by the entire team.

Saturday afternoon play also yielded another fine defensive struggle between Coach Jackie Kidd's Charles H. Johnson, Inc. Kicks and Coach Christine Ross' team.

The Kicks lead off with a quick offensive scoring attack with a goal credited to Kyle Kidd for the Kicks, however, Ross' team came back to score a goal that tied the game.

The final score was a tie, 1 to 1 thanks to the fine efforts by both teams.

Coast Episcopal volleyball team splits in Louisiana event

Coast Episcopal High School Raiders split in the second of three volleyball tournaments against Riverside Academy of River Ridge, La. and Word of Life Academy of Baton Rouge. The team played six intense sets against the other teams.

In the first set against Word of Life, the Raiders won 15-6. Scorers were Ginny Edwards-1, Leah Salsbury-9, Rachel Pulliam-2, and Megan Uram-3. In the second set, the Raiders were defeated 15-7.

Scorers were Leanne Stafford-1, Rachel Pulliam-2, Sharon Orlin-4. In the third set, the score was 15-6, Word of Life. Scorers were Leah Salsbury-2, Pilar Frederick-2, Megan Uram-1, and Melissa "Mikey" Catron-1.

In competition with Riverside, the Raiders were victorious, winning 2 of 3 sets. In the first set, scorers were Ginny Edwards-2, Leanne Stafford-3, Leah Salsbury-2, Rachel Pulliam-4, Sharon Orlin-3, and Megan Uram-1, making the final score 15-11, Coast High.

Second set scorers were Ginny Edwards-6, Leah Salsbury-2, Rachel Pulliam-2, Melissa "Mikey" Catron-1, and Sharon Orlin-1, making the final score 15-12 in favor of Riverside Academy.

In the third set, Raiders were again victorious, winning by four points.

Top scorers were Melissa "Mikey" Catron-5 and Sharon Orlin-4. Other team scorers included Ginny Edwards-2, Rachel Pulliam-2, Megan Uram-1 and Leah Salsbury-1, making the score 15-11.

Other members of the team are Jennifer Burkett, Lauren Gipson, Rachel Lawrence and Cherie Little.

"We have a very hard-working but inexperienced team which is improving with every practice," said Coach Calvin Smith.

Hunting seasons open

JACKSON—The hunting season on two of the most popular small game species in Mississippi opens next weekend.

Squirrel and rabbit hunting get underway next Saturday, Oct. 17. The squirrel season will end Jan. 15 while rabbit season will continue through Feb. 28.

Figures from the Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson show that over 150,000 outdoorsmen in the Magnolia State hunt squirrels and harvest some 2.3 million.

Almost as popular is rabbit season. Over 95,000 hunters go after these animals, harvesting well over a million each year.

The daily limit on squirrels and rabbits is eight and the possession limit for both is 16.

Conservation enforcement officials remind hunters that legal shooting hours are on-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

Hunters must have a valid state hunting license signed and on their person before going afield.

Meanwhile, the season on frogs has closed. The last day for hunting them this year was Sunday, Oct. 4. The season will reopen next April 8.

When you're near a plethora of pheasants, you're nigh a nye of them.

Coast Raiders turned back at Baton Rouge

The Coast Episcopal High School Raiders travelled to Baton Rouge Saturday to take on the Cornerstone Academy Cardinals at their homecoming.

The Cardinals feasted on many Raider errors to capture a 51-6 homecoming victory.

The Cardinals' running and passing game worked amazingly well and the Raiders could not stop a potent Cardinal running game that saw them run up the middle and pass deep for numerous scores.

The Raiders' usually stingy second-half defense appeared to stay in the locker room at half-time.

Chris Riggs made a valiant effort to energize his team but to no avail. Dropped passes, illegal procedure penalties, and missed blocking assignments halted Raider drives.

"Until this team makes up its mind to eliminate the errors, we will have a tough time winning," said Coach Mahan.

Shifty Quarterback Chris Riggs had 34 yards rushing on roll out passes and the bootleg and would have had a good passing day if receivers could have held on to the ball. He also contributed 10 tackles in trying to rally his team.

Left End Billy Guice had 27 yards in receptions, 16 yards rushing and 20 yards in kick returns. Jason Evans had 10 yards rushing. David Williams, freshman, had five yards rushing and 55 yards in kick returns. Rea Montjoy had 16 tackles with Mike Kergosien and Sterling Thibodeaux each contributing 13 tackles.

Coach Mahan still sees a bright lining to Raider football this season.

"We have a very young team this year with many kids playing for the first time. We have been playing mostly senior teams that have a lot of experience. It has been a good learning experience since we have only three seniors on a 28-man roster. Prospects are bright for the future of Raider football.

Additionally, this is the first year that Coast Episcopal has had a Junior Varsity football team which is making good progress."

The Raiders have an off week but will be busy preparing for their homecoming contest against Calvary Heights War Eagles at the Raiders' home field. All parents and alumni are invited to homecoming activities and the 3 p.m. kickoff.

Bus trip planned for USM-Memphis State game

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi Alumni Association plans a chartered bus trip to Memphis, Tenn., for the Oct. 24 football game with the Memphis State University Tigers.

The chartered bus will leave Hattiesburg Saturday, Oct. 24, in time for the open house and football game. The return trip will be Sunday, Oct. 25.

Reservation is by payment on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost of the bus/hotel depends on the number of persons sharing a room. Football tickets are not included in the trip price, but can be reserved along with trip reservations.

The open house will be held from 3:30-5:30 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Wilson World Hotel located at 2715 Cherry Road off I-240 near the mall of Memphis.

The reservation deadline for the bus trip is Oct. 16. Visit the USM Alumni House or call (601) 266-5013 for details.

Red fish study grants awarded to GCRL

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has been awarded two research grants by the National Marine Fisheries Service, U.S. Department of Commerce, totaling $104,032.

One grant is for $45,000 to support a project entitled "Life History Studies of the Red Drum Population in Mississippi."

This is the second of a three year study under the supervision of Dr. Thomas D. McIlwain, assistant director for Fisheries.

The second grant is for $59,032 and will support a redfish study entitled "Identification of Red Drum Fishery Stock and Establishment of a Multivariate Model for Growth and Body Condition."

The principal investigator on this project is Dr. Stuart Poss, head of the Systematic Zoology Section of GCRL.

The primary objectives of these studies are to describe the life history, fishery stocks and migration of redfish in Mississippi coastal waters. The data generated are to be used to facilitate management decisions by state and federal agencies.

Rocks travel to La. to face Riverdale

The St. Stanislaus Rockchaws will attempt to get back in stride when they travel to Metairie, La. tonight to face the Riverdale Rebels.

Coach Ken Lyons and his squad have been practicing hard in anticipation of bringing home a win against the 1-5 Riverdale Rebels.

"Our squad feels optimistic about Riverdale. Our spirit seems to be renewed," stated Coach Lyons.

"For us to win, our linemen must come off the ball on offense. We feel very positive about this game. In our past two ballgames, we have lacked concentration and intensity," added Coach Lyons.

"The Rocks have had a good week of practice. We need to establish consistency in our running game, since split end Freddie Wirstrom may not play," said Coach Lyons.

The Riverdale Rebels have played a tough schedule this season. Coach Lyons noted that the Riverdale quarterback seems to lead his team well, and the Rebels have a bruising fullback. On defense, the nose guard appears to be extremely tough.

The Rockchaws are now 3-3. Kickoff for the Riverdale contest at East Jefferson Stadium is set for 7:30 p.m.

Heitzmann leads SSC J.V. to 2-2 record

The St. Stanislaus Rockchaw Junior Varsity football team has posted a 2-2 record thus far this season. Sparking for the Rocks is receiver/quarterback Scott Heitzmann.

The Rockchaws have posted two wins over Pope John Paul by scores of 16-15 and 10-6, while losing a close game to Bay High 26-23, and Hancock North Central 24-6.

In the first Pope John Paul game, Ron Engel ran 61 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. The Rocks went for the two point conversion, but did not make it.

The third quarter began with the Rocks ahead 6-0. Heitzmann, filling in at quarterback, threw a 28-yard pass to Noah Denson, but the Rocks were guilty of holding. On the next play, Heitzmann threw to Mike Vinci for a 44-yard pickup and the Rocks were moving.

Engel blasted up the middle for 21 yards, but the Rocks stalled. Heitzmann kicked a 30-yard field goal to put SSC up, 9-0.

On the Rockchaws' next possession, Heitzmann threw a 54-yard bomb to Vinci. Engel and Scardino had good runs to bring the ball down to the 16-yard line, where Heitzmann made the final touchdown on a bootleg play. The extra point was good, and the Rocks won, 16-15.

In the Bay High contest, the score changed hands many times in the contest. SSC opened the scoring with a 26-yard field goal by Heitzmann. The Tigers came right back on a 46-yard touchdown run by Alvin Dedeaux. The extra point was blocked and Bay-High led, 6-3.

In the second quarter, Bay High increased their lead on a quarterback sneak by Benny Tillman with a little over six minutes left in the half. The extra point was again blocked.

The Rockchaws recovered a Bay High fumble with a minute left in the half, and three plays later the Rocks scored, closing the gap to 12-10 at half.

In the third quarter, Dedeaux again scored for the Tigers as Bay High took a 19-10 advantage. The Rocks took the ensuing kickoff at the 14-yard line, and Heitzmann raced 86 yards for the score, and Bay High clung to a 19-17 lead.

Darryl Washington scored the final touchdown for the Tigers late in the fourth quarter to make the score Bay High 26, SSC 17.

The Rocks did not give up, as Ron Engel raced 18 yards for the final SSC tally. Time ran out on the Rocks as the Tigers won 26-23.

Eagles lose to FSU

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—In a nutshell, Florida State is every bit as good as the Seminoles' number six national rating would indicate, maybe even better.

University of Southern Mississippi head coach Jim Carnody noted throughout the week prior to the game that FSU would be the highest ranked team ever to play in Roberts Stadium and called the Seminoles "without a doubt the best team ever faced by a USM squad." Following the game he took no satisfaction in saying "I told you so."

Coach Bobby Bowden's team worked its magic once again, coming up with a pair of blocked punts (one returned for a touchdown) enroute to a convincing 61-10 win over USM Saturday afternoon in Roberts Stadium, spoiling an otherwise sterling homecoming weekend.

On any other day, USM's 310 yards of total offense would have been only slightly below par. On this day it wasn't nearly enough as FSU put up 404 rushing yards and 214 more through the air while the Seminole defense came up with five interceptions against a much-harassed USM offense.

But even in the one-sided loss, there were bright spots. The Eagles fought back from an early 14-0 deficit to cut the margin to 14-7 (on a 69-yard run by sophomore fullback Reginald Warnsley); they amassed the earlier-mentioned 310 yards of offense against a great defensive unit, including 270 yards rushing, the defense came up with a pair of interceptions against one of the better throwing teams in the country, and Shelton Gandy kept his 100-yard-plus per game average alive with 86 hard earned stripes against the Seminoles.

Warnsley accounted for 87 more on just six carries, and freshman quarterback Brett Favre had 78 more on nine carries, including a long scramble of 35 yards.

The Eagles, who now have faced three of the nation's perennially stronger teams in the country each year (Alabama, Texas A&M and Florida State), next will tangle with intrastate rival Mississippi State. That game is set for 1:00 p.m., Oct. 17 in Jackson's Memorial Stadium, and will bring together two rivals who have in past years played some of the great games involving Mississippi schools.

USM won last year's game 28-24, putting together a series of plays in the closing minutes that is still referred to by USM fans as The Drive, and leads the series between the two teams 12-10-1.

USM educators market Leisure Trivia game

HATTIESBURG—If you know what sport uses a winker and a shooter, how many squares are on a checkerboard, or what a deltiologist collects, you could be a whiz at a new educational game conceived by two educators at the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Leisure Trivia,"—a board game developed over a one-year span by USM Recreation and Parks Instructor Susan Hubble and Assistant Professor of Recreation and Parks Dr. James Allen Ellard—was designed for students to seriously study the academic side of the recreation discipline and have a little fun at the same time.

"It's an educational tool," Hubble said. "Dr. Ellard and I both teach introductory recreation courses at USM, and we expanded on the information used in those classes.

"Sometimes it's difficult to memorize a lot of information," she continued. "But students seem to retain much of the information they get through playing the game, and we feel it's an enjoyable learning experience for them."

Leisure Trivia—which takes an average two-and-a-half hours to complete—is designed to be played in a classroom of 25 to 30 students.

An overhead projector shows the game board on a wall, or ceiling as the students roll a die and advance, space-by-space, through a maze of recreation-oriented situations.

If a player lands on any one of five "Key Spot" spaces, he must answer questions about that category of information from a color-coded game board. A player must answer questions from all five "Key Spot" categories to win the game. If a player lands on a "park bench" space, he loses a turn.

In addition to "fun" categories of information—winkers and shooters are used in tidily winks, there are 64 squares on a checkerboard, and a deltiologist collects many things including postcards—Leisure Trivia also has questions that test a student's knowledge about recreation as a profession.

"In 1964, what federal act first recognized the recreational value of federal lands?" one card queried. The answer read, "The Classification and Multiple Use Act."

Hubble and Ellard have marketed their game this fall, and already have received orders from several institutions, including the University of Georgia and North Dakota State University.

Proceeds from the sale of the game (19.95 and down, depending on institutional use) go to USM's Department of Recreation and Parks for future academic development.

PRC to host Bulldogs

There is only one thing more shocking than the Pearl River College Wildcats being 2-4 at this stage of the 1987 football season. The Bulldogs and Bulldogs will meet Saturday night at 7 p.m. in the Dobie Holden Stadium here on campus.

In pre-season polls the Bulldogs were picked to repeat as state champions, while the team to give them the most problems was the PRC Wildcats.

In fact, as in so many years past, this game the seventh of the year, was to be the battle—the war for the top spot here in the South and maybe even the nation.

But with only three wins between the two, this year's fight has boiled down to being "Who's the king of the hill here in the deep south of Mississippi."

"Our expectations were high when the season began," said Mike Nelson, the Wildcats head coach.

"After we lost a couple of close games in the early going and we realized we could not reach our goal, it had a bad effect on our players."

Nelson said it was not the goal of the Wildcats to be 6-4 this season. "It was to be undefeated," Nelson said.

"Now the players and coaches have to think a winning season."

The Wildcats opened with a 58-0 win over Coahoma, before losing 13-6 to Jones and then winning over Northeast 38-14. Since then the 'Cats have lost to Hinds (26-22), Northwest (31-27) and East Central (21-0).

The loss this past week was probably the worst performance of the entire season. "We just shut things down," said Nelson, about the 'Cats output this past Saturday afternoon.

"In fact, that was the worst performance I've seen since coming to PRC," said Nelson. "There were only a hand-full of players who really put out during the afternoon."

Nelson, in his third season as head of the Wildcats, promised that his team would have a different attitude this week. "We'll start working hard today (Monday)."

Nelson said the Bulldogs had to be suffering from the same shock his Wildcats were going through. "When you have such high expectations and the bottom falls out its hard to re-group," said Nelson. "But that's where a good team will rise to the occasion. This Saturday is where we can show our fans that we have a good team."

A tailgate party is set for 5:30 p.m. in the area roped off for the Wildcat Booster Club. Everyone is invited to come early and enjoy fellowship before the game.

"This is a big rival game for both schools," said Nelson. "It will have the same flavor as any other PRC-Perk clash. There's just not any state or national rankings on the line."

This past week the Wildcats lost to East Central 21-0. East Central is the only team the Bulldogs have defeated this year and that was by a 7-0 decision.

The Bulldogs dropped a 13-3 decision to Jones this past Saturday in Laurel, Jones, by the way, has won only two games this year. The Bobcats defeated Gulf Coast and Pearl River.

PRC sets party prior to game

Pearl River College Wildcat fans are urged to attend a "super tailgate party" starting at 5:30 p.m. Saturday before the Pearl River-Gulf Coast football game set for 7 p.m. here in the Dobie Holden Stadium.

Wildcat Club President Larry McPhail said the group will meet in a designated area roped off on the home side of the Holden Stadium. "It will be a lot of fun for the whole family," McPhail said. "It will be a good time to renew old friendships."

The PRC Wildcat Club is sponsoring the event but be sure and bring your own tailgate fixings.

Bus trip offered by alumni group to Ole Miss-Tennessee game

The University of Mississippi Alumni Association is offering a bus trip to University alumni and Rebel sports fans who wish to attend the Ole Miss-Tennessee State University football game in Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday, Nov. 14.

The bus will leave the Alumni House at 8 a.m. Friday, Nov. 13, and will arrive in Knoxville at the downtown Hilton at 4:30 p.m. The bus will stop for lunch along the route. A reception, hosted by the Alumni Association, will be held in the Presidential Suite of the Hilton upon arrival in Knoxville.

Trip participants will be transported to and from the game, which is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 14. The bus will return to Oxford Sunday morning.

Seats are going fast, so Rebel fans should make reservations by contacting Gray Mounger in the Alumni Affairs Office at (601) 232-7375.

Cost of the double-occupancy package trip is $185 per person and includes transportation, two nights in a double room at the Hilton, snacks and beverages on the bus and at the reception. A single-room package is offered at $260 per person.

St. Stanislaus salutes Constitution

The St. Stanislaus History Department recently sponsored an assembly entitled "We the People..." in recognition of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

The assembly was for the entire St. Stanislaus student body and faculty. The senior classes under the direction of Dale Moran organized the assembly.

The program began with a prayer by senior Jean Larroux and the pledge of allegiance was led by senior Robert Brown. The St.

Stanislaus band played the national anthem; and Ya-Sin Shabazz, president of the St. Stanislaus student body, gave the official welcome. The senior barbershop quartet gave their rendition of "America."

In a special tribute to America, eighth grade student Jonathan Compretta spoke on behalf of the junior high students. Senior David Bast spoke for the senior high students, and Mrs. Virginia Gex spoke on behalf of the faculty. This was followed by three songs of Colonial America played by the St. Stanislaus band.

Senior Stephen Cuevas introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sharon Woodfield, who gave a very moving and detailed account of the events leading up to the signing of the Constitution.

In his closing remarks Brother Paul Montero, principal, thanked all those who had helped to make the assembly such a moving experience; and he thanked Mrs. Woodfield in particular for the large part that she had contributed to the assembly.

UNO schedules events for National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week

The Alcohol Awareness Committee of the University of New Orleans has planned a series of programs for National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, Oct. 19-23. All events, which are free and open to the public, will be held on the UNO campus.

Events for Oct. 19 include a RAPP Contest at noon in the student park and a Film and Celebrity Panel Discussion at 7 p.m. in the Engineering building, room 101. The rapp contest features UNO students who have written original raps against drugs and alcohol. A free showing of "The Rose," starring Bette Midler, will be followed by an open discussion on "Substance Abuse in the Entertainment Industry," with celebrity guests Irma Thomas, The Pfister Sisters, and The Topcats.

Oct. 20 starts with Display Day at 11 a.m. in the Library plaza where various organizations will provide literature and information about local substance abuse programs. There will be an Athletic Panel discussion on "Alcohol and Substance Abuse in Sports," at 6 p.m. in the Lakefront Arena. Panelists include former Saints player Danny Abramowicz, Dr. Mervin Trail, ENT Specialist at Doctors Hospital, and Randy Coffman, program coordinator of Counterpoint Drug & Alcohol Program at Coliseum Medical Center.

A Mock Trial on Oct. 21, at 1 p.m. in the University Center, room 242, will be a dramatic presentation of a trial where a drunk driver is charged with vehicular homicide. The DWI Wagon starts at 11 a.m. on Oct. 22 in the University Center Horseshoe, where New Orleans Police will cordially "walk" students through the DWI arrest process, followed by an open Alcoholics Anonymous Meeting and Luncheon at 12:15 p.m. in the University Center, room 220.

For more information about alcohol and Alcohol Awareness Week, contact UNO's Mental Health Service, 286-6683.

PARADING to Christ Episcopal Church for a special celebration of the Constitution are Marlee Williams, Meriam Salloum and Vanessa Pierce, all sixth grade students at Coast Episcopal Elementary School in Bay St. Louis.

Genealogy resources on Civil War participants available at USM

HATTIESBURG—Family researchers interested in finding the military records of relatives who fought in the Civil War should look into the numerous sources of information now in the genealogy collection of the McCain Library and Archives of the University of Southern Mississippi campus.

For Mississippians, the service records are on microfilm. Access is obtained by reading the filmed, alphabetical list of officers and men to determine outfit assignment. With this information, one can find all that remains of the records.

The service records do not give any family information, but usually lists the date and place of enlistment and some details of battles, sickness, wounds, capture and so on.

The Mississippi Department of Archives and history has compiled a registry of CSA graves. Some have been published and other parts of the list are on microfilm.

In addition, there are regimental histories, rosters of men who enlisted in different counties, and other records scattered through the genealogical magazines.

For other states, the McCain Library and Archives has a large number of records including: the four-volume "Records of Louisiana Confederate Soldiers;" four volumes of "North Carolina Troops 1861-1865;" "Tennessee Civil War Veterans Questionnaires;" "Service Records of Confederate States Marine Corps;" "Tennesseans in the Civil War;" and nine volumes of "Massachusetts Soldiers."

The facility also has: "Sailors and Marines in the Civil War;" Texas and Arkansas CSA pension records; one volume of Salley's "South Carolina Troops in Confederate Service;" "Confederate POW's Buried in Northern Cemeteries;" and a new reprint set of the 127-volume "Official Records of the War of the Rebellion."

The newly published index to a 1893-1932 magazine, "The Confederate Veteran," also has been added to the McCain genealogical records. The magazine contains many obituaries, brief biographies and other items of interest about confederate veterans all over the states.

One other item of particular interest concerning the Civil War period is the book, "Civil War Claims in the South." The publication is a state-by-state list of persons who filed claims against the Union for property damage during the war. The unique thing about the claims book is that a person had to prove that he was known during the hostilities as a Unionist. The actual claims can be purchased from the National Archives in Washington, D.C. There are 1,777 Mississippi citizens on the claims list, as well as many thousands from other states.

New books received at USM's McCain Library include: "Marriages of Shelby Co., Ala.;" "South Carolina Quilt Rents of 1735-1736;" "Huguenot Pedigrees" by Lart, and a Reynolds family history.

Queries concerning the genealogical records in the McCain Library and Archives are free and welcomed. Please confine them to one, or two specific questions, including time and place. Address questions to Dr. Betty Drake, McCain Library, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39406.

A sample query would be: FRANCHER: James M. Francher, b. Carol Co., Ms in 1821; Married Harriet (surname unknown). Who were his parents and what was his wife's maiden name? Your name and address.

The booming sound of a plane passing the sound barrier cannot be heard by the pilot.

As harmful gases accumulate, scientists believe the Earth's blanket of air will become a global heat trap triggering long term and possible cataclysmic changes in climate. This phenomenon called "The Greenhouse Effect." Science

Screen Report, a monthly international film/video series that presents the latest developments in science, medicine and engineering which is donated to the schools of Bay St. Louis as a community service by Alcan Cable—This month follows researchers to the massive ice sheets of the Antarctic to witness its effects and to seek solutions.

Delta Assembly issues final report on population issues

Population issues, especially those focusing on unintended teenage pregnancies and parenting, are sensitive topics about which almost everyone has a strongly held opinion.

But a just-released document produced by the University of New Orleans' School of Urban and Regional Studies shows how people who represent widely divergent sides of those issues can come to some consensus about the steps to take to begin addressing them.

The document is the final report of the Delta Assembly, in which 70 residents of the Delta Region met for two and a half days in February to talk about population, pregnancy and parenting.

The Delta Assembly, established at UNO in 1982, is a regional component of the American Assembly, created in 1950 by Dwight D. Eisenhower when he was president of Columbia University. The purpose of both is to provide information, stimulate discussion, and evoke independent conclusions on issues vital to the public interest. The Delta Assembly's region includes Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Among the recommendations in the final report:

—Economic development development is a crying need in our region. Employers must become aware of the correlation between school dropout, early childbearing and the lack of adequate skills found in our labor force.

—Religious and secular leaders must become more responsive to the issue of early adolescent pregnancy.

—Affordable, accessible, quality child care should be a priority in our region.

—Comprehensive, culturally relevant family planning and postnatal services should be available to all.

—Schools should deliver support services aimed at preventing early unintended pregnancies and delaying sexual intercourse.

—The welfare system should be reformed to strengthen families and guarantee a decent standard of living.

The assembly participants came from organizations whose approach to population issues are quite different.

Research foundation president pleads for ear institute

By Lawrence Melli
President, Deafness
Research Foundation

NEW YORK—I entered the world of the hearing impaired and deaf—suddenly and dramatically, four years ago when I discovered my infant son was profoundly deaf. I was traumatized.

I discovered that there are 22 million hearing impaired and deaf Americans in the United States, and the number is escalating dramatically each year.

Hearing loss affects about one in ten Americans. The cost of hearing loss to the United States economy is estimated at $27 billion yearly, including special education, lost productivity, medical care and research.

Despite these staggering figures and the serious threat hearing disorders pose to our nation's health, the Federal government has failed to increase vitally needed research-funding to accelerate the treating and cure of this affliction.

There are two obvious reasons for this inaction; one, the disease is not perceived as life threatening, and two, unlike people who have manifest signs of a physically debilitating illness, those who are hearing impaired or deaf look quite normal.

But they are not normal; they are crippled inside. The deaf are often isolated and lonely, with minimal opportunity for a good education and employment. They face a life of frustration, anguish and struggle in seeking to function in society.

What I discovered in attempting to enlist help for my son was shocking and outrageous. To begin with, my pediatrician, on three different occasions, told me there was nothing wrong with my son's hearing.

Subsequently, I learned that many cases of hearing impairment are missed by pediatricians. Obviously, pediatricians must be better trained to uncover or diagnose hearing impairment in a child.

When I knew for certain that my son had a hearing problem, I sat in my office for three days making calls around the country, attempting to gain some meaningful direction and advice, to find the best possible treatment and therapy that this country has to offer.

I met with such contradictory and counter-productive statements by organizations that were advocating one form of education or another, that I finally made a decision based on instinct rather than on the information I received.

I was also shocked to learn that there had been relatively few technological advances in hearing aids. I could not fathom why, in this age of microchips, computers and the Sony Walkman, advanced technology had not been applied to hearing aids.

I was so frustrated and so depressed that I decided I wanted to do something to assist hearing impaired and deaf Americans. I joined the Deafness Research Foundation in 1983 and became president in 1984, a volunteer position.

The Foundation provides seed money, about $2 million annually, to new researchers to encourage them into the field and provide them with a track record they can use in applying for subsequent larger grants from the National Institutes of Health.

The fact is, hearing research in the past five years has continued to receive $35 million a year, only 10 percent annually of monies allocated by the government for medical research—unlike other diseases, which are granted additional funds yearly.

This inadequate level of funding is the basic reason why we seek additional monies. We feel that a separate Ear Institute, funded by the government, would be the ideal vehicle to focus research and assistance for hearing impaired and deaf Americans—and provide adequate funds for those researchers seeking breakthroughs and answers.

To add to the problem, the Reagan Administration has reduced its funding for hearing research to eight percent in fiscal 1988. As it now stands, deafness is being neglected in the battle for the funding of medical research.

That's why there is an overriding need to establish a separate Ear Institute, where the country's most sophisticated biomedical researchers, physicians and audiologists could concentrate their efforts on hearing problems.

An Ear Institute would deal in four specific areas: cause of the disease; diagnosis; the patients' rehabilitation; and cure of the disease.

As part of its program, it would enable physicians who are now doing research and treatment to see patients clinically in the course of their assigned duties.

The Ear Institute could fund or readily interface with some of the principal research laboratories in the country as they uncover new and remedial approaches. More importantly, it would have a much broader base for research and treatment than any existing institution is likely to develop.

I know from personal experience the anguish and suffering millions of American parents must endure when they discover their child is deaf or hearing impaired.

An Ear Institute is long overdue. It is needed now, and it should be a national priority.

The Deafness Research Foundation, founded in 1958 and based in Manhattan, is the largest non-profit health organization totally committed to directing public attention and support for basic and clinical research on the causes, treatment and prevention of deafness and hearing disabilities.

sentatives; Rachel Lawrance and Blair Shellnut, Eighth Grade representatives; and rear, Ginny Edwards and Billy Guice, Tenth Grade representatives; and Laura Taylor and Candace Payne, Ninth Grade representatives. (CEHS Photo)

Coast High names 1987-1988 student officers

Student Council officers were recently elected at Coast Episcopal High School for the 1987-88 school year.

Elected as president was senior Susannah Shellnut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shellnut of Pass Christian. Susannah was the recipient of a Japan-U.S. Senate Scholarship and spent six weeks living in Japan this past summer.

Other officers are Vice President Rusty Roper, a junior, of Ocean Springs;

Treasurer Malise Marchal, junior of Pass Christian, and Secretary Stacey Standridge, senior, of Diamondhead.

Student Council Representatives are sophomores Billy Guice of Biloxi and Ginny Edwards of Long Beach, Freshmen Candace Payne of Bay St. Louis and Laura Taylor of Pass Christian; Eighth grade Blair Shellnut and Rachel Lawrence both of Pass Christian; Seventh grade Mark Catron of Long Beach and Ellen McRaney of Ocean Springs.

The Student Council is sponsored by history and government teacher Ms. Linda McCulloch.

The Coast Episcopal High School Student Council sponsors such programs as Adopt-A-Student between the seventh grade and the seniors, establishing a Students Against Drunk Driving Chapter, and community activities such as the Thanksgiving Baskets.

Modeling agency expands

Color Campus reports expansion of services to include a full talent and modeling agency.

Color Campus for the past five years has been a limited source of local talent for use by advertising agencies on the Coast.

Due to an increase in the number of sophisticated television and print commercials filmed in our area they have found it necessary to expand their services to include a full scale talent and modeling agency.

Persons of all ages interested in being considered for television or print commercials may apply at the Color Campus office located in Petit Bois Specialty Center (Bldg 1) 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

A snapshot is desired. An audition will be scheduled depending on potential.

No experience is required, however, of particular interest are those with theater background and/or education.

There is no charge for the submission of application to the talent and modeling agency.

Color Campus Job Placement Service, a division of Color Campus Modeling School and Agency continues to offer a complete job placement service for local employers and applicants. Anne Seal, Gulfport, is in charge of this division."

Diamondhead's Salsbury, Standridge lead Coast Episcopal High Cheerleaders

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of the Raider Cheerleaders for the 1987-88 school year.

Elected captain is senior Leah Salsbury and co-captain is Stacey Standridge.

Both girls are from Diamondhead. Team members are seniors Kristin Catron of Long Beach and Katherine Smith of Bay St. Louis.

Freshmen members are Melissa Catron of Long Beach, Melissa Cornelius of Biloxi, Beth Holleman of Waveland, Leanne Stafford of Diamondhead and Laura Taylor of Pass Christian.

The CEHS Raider Cheerleaders attended the National Cheerleader Camp in Natchitoches, La. this summer. It was their first experience attending a camp, and they brought back many new ideas for pep rallies, stunts, pyramids and cheers. The team won a superior ribbon at the end of camp.

The CEHS Cheerleaders are sponsored by Mrs. Mary Mizell and Mrs. Bonney Salsbury.

Youth press conference will focus on cancer ETV Briefs

LONG BEACH—The University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast will provide career testing at its Gulf Park campus in Long Beach Friday, Oct. 16.

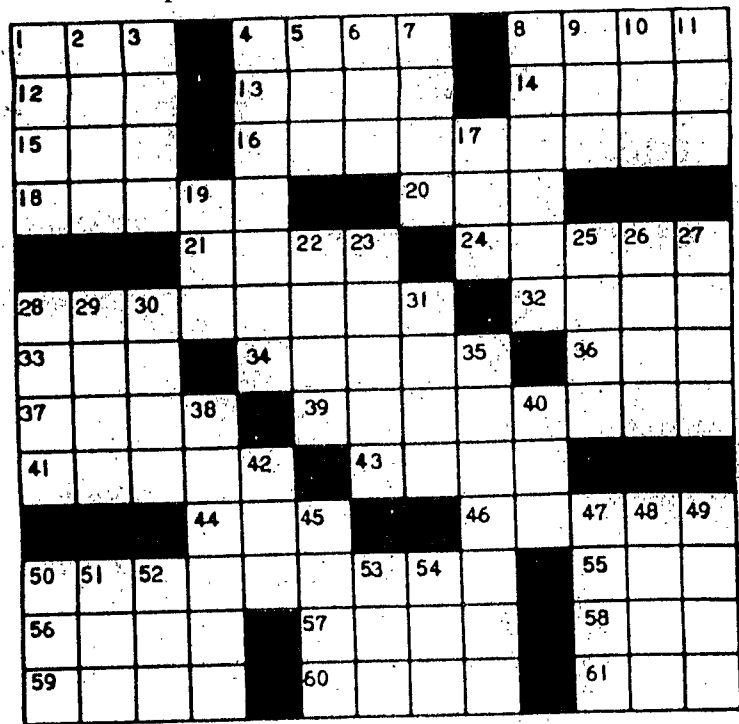

Anyone age 15 years or older who would like assistance in choosing a career is invited to register free of charge to take the Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory and the Career Decision-making System tests, to be administered in the Cafeteria in Hardy Hall at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The tests are designed to identify general career types that may suit the individual and suggest specific jobs the individual may wish to investigate further. USM career guidance personnel will return to USM-Gulf Park about three weeks from the testing date, to review results with testing participants. A specific date will be announced.

To register, call USM Student Services at 865-4503 in Harrison County or at 497-3636 in Jackson County.

Ole Miss readies campus for parents weekend

The University of Mississippi's annual Parents Weekend will be held Oct. 16-17 at the Oxford campus.

On Friday, activities scheduled for parents of Ole Miss students include a welcoming picnic, a look at academic programs at the University, a reception with Ole Miss Chancellor Gerald Turner and a progressive dinner at several sorority houses.

On Saturday, parents can take walking tours of the campus, view academic and career exhibits, listen to "Oxford Jazz" and attend a pep rally and luncheon in The Grove prior to the Ole Miss-Southwestern Louisiana football game at Vaught-Hemingway Stadium.

Before and after the game, parents and students can view Mississippi crafts displays and hear folk music at the Oxford Folklife Festival in front of the Ole Miss Union.

There is a $25-per-parent fee covering all events, including tickets for both the progressive dinner and the football game.

For more information on events and registration for Parents Weekend, call the Ole Miss Alumni Association at (601) 323-7375.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. I will soon be taking care of my 18 month-old nephew and have tried to "child proof" my home by putting safety locks and caps on cabinets and electrical outlets. What are some other "innocent" things around the house that could mean trouble for small children? Mrs. H.M., Natchitoches, La.

A. One of the most common childhood accidents is poisoning. Every household contains potential dangerous poisons if certain products are left out in the open for curious toddlers to explore.

According to Dr. Richard McConnell, chairman of the emergency department at Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans, a child's curiosity is at its peak between the ages of two and four years. Consequently, this is the age at which most child poisonings occur.

Most people are aware that household cleaning solutions such as bleach and ammonia-based products are poisonous. But other examples of some everyday products which may be dangerous if consumed by a child are:

Perfumes: Forty to 80 percent of all perfumes are pure ethanol. The sweet-smelling bottles of perfume can be attractive to a small child and it takes only two teaspoons for a small child to become intoxicated.

Cigarettes: Two or three cigarettes eaten by a child can cause comas, seizures or even death. Fortunately, vomiting is a normal reaction after consuming tobacco.

Roach and rodent killer: Most effective roach and rodent killers contain boric acid, a white, powdery, sometimes sweet-smelling substance, which resembles powdered sugar. If swallowed, this poison can be dangerous.

Batteries: The small button-sized disk batteries, if swallowed, can not only lodge in the throat, but may produce electrical currents which may in turn, destroy the mucosa lining in the esophagus. Old disk batteries may leak acid thereby creating another health threat.

Mothballs: A couple of mothballs can contain serious toxins harmful to a small child.

Many more household products can be dangerous to a small child if eaten. Obviously, eliminating household products can't solve the child poisoning problem. Most cleaners and other known chemicals should be kept out of reach of children.

A bottle of ipecac syrup to help induce vomiting and activated charcoal, to counteract ingested poisons should be kept in the medicine chest in case an accidental poisoning occurs.

If a poisoning does occur, Dr. McConnell urges you to call the nearest poison control center, the family physician or an emergency physician. These medical specialists can tell you what to do by telephone before coming to the hospital. Prepare in advance of an accident and keep these numbers handy in case you have to use them in a hurry.

French honor Welty

JACKSON—Eudora Welty, preeminent Mississippi writer, has been chosen to receive the Chevalier de l'Ordre des Arts et Lettres from the Ministry of Culture and Communications in France.

Jean Charpentier, cultural attaché from the French Consulate in New Orleans, will present the award on Sunday, Oct. 18, at the Old Capitol at 3:30 p.m. The public is invited.

According to Charpentier only two other Southern writers have received this prestigious award: Mississippi pianist and playwright Tennessee Williams and novelist Truman Capote.

Also scheduled to be on the program with Welty and Charpentier are William Winter, president of the Board of Trustees of the Department of Archives and History, and William Ferris, director, Center for the Study of Southern Culture.

This event is sponsored by the Department of Archives and History, the repository for the Welty collection. For more information call the Old Capitol at 354-6222.

Sea Grant sponsors fellowship competition

OCEAN SPRINGS—The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium (MASGC) is sponsoring two separate fellowship competitions for graduate and undergraduate students enrolled at consortium member institutions. Dr. James I. Jones, MASGC director, announced.

Consortium member institutions in Mississippi are Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Mississippi State University, University of Mississippi and University of Southern Mississippi. Alabama members are Auburn University, University of Alabama, University of Alabama at Birmingham and University of South Alabama.

Graduate students may propose coastal or marine-related research programs for a summer, a semester, an academic year (September-May) or a full 12-month year to being June 1988. The deadline for graduate applications is January 15, 1988.

Undergraduate fellowships are for marine science studies in summer programs at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) here on Dauphin Island Sea Lab (DISL) at Dauphin Island, Alabama. Deadline for undergraduate applications is March 1, 1988.

Graduate candidates must be United States citizens. Selection is based on the design of proposed research. Application materials are available from the dean of the graduate school, student financial aid offices and MASGC administrative offices.

Undergraduate competition is open to juniors and seniors with an overall minimum 3.0 grade point average in a four point system. The awards include tuition for three to 12 semester hours of marine science courses and room and board.

Each undergraduate applicant should submit official transcripts, two written recommendations from faculty members in the applicant's primary field of study, a verified budget based on GCRL or DISL costs, a recent photograph and a typed, one-page letter stating reasons for applying and courses selected.

Send submissions to Dr. James I. Jones, Director, Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, P.O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39564-7000. For more information contact Sea Grant educator Sharon H. Walker at (601)-875-9341.

An element of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration within the U.S. Department of commerce, Sea Grant is administered in Mississippi and Alabama through a consortium of institutions of higher learning committed to marine-related research, education and public service.

Youth Brief

"UP WITH YOUTH"

AMI Garden Park Community Hospital is sponsoring, once again, the "Up With Youth" workshop. "Up With Youth" is dedicated to helping young people 10-16 years old improve their quality of life through the development of high self-esteem.

It's a fast-paced 5 hour workshop designed to build self-motivation, develop goal-setting and problem solving skills, use creative imagination and positive thinking, and help to say No to peer-pressure and drugs.

"Up With youth" will be held on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the dining garden of the hospital. The registration fee is $20 which includes lunch, an "Up With Youth" T-shirt, and workbook.

Registration is limited. Those wishing to attend may call 865-1372 or 865-1340, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TEEN TALK

Stress Is Fact Of Life Even For Young People

By Ann Jarratt
4-H Youth Development Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Stress is a fact of modern living. It can be a useful tool for motivation or a cause of physical and emotional distress.

The major difference in whether stress is helpful or harmful is in the strength of the stress and the way you deal with it.

One teen wanted to know, "Why are teens' problems with stress often overlooked by all others?"

At one time it was thought that only adults had stress. Of course we know now that is not true. As with adults, the difference in a life is how a person deals with stress.

Someone defined stress as "excess energy caused by fear." The first thing to do then is identify what you're afraid of. Is it fear of failing? Could it be fear of looking or sounding foolish and being laughed at?

ETV Briefs

WHODUNITS

Lord Peter Wimsey, crime writer Dorothy Sayers' monocled dilettante detective hero, returns to "Mystery!" on ETV in new adaptations of three Sayers novels.

Portrayed on public TV in the early '70s by Ian Carmichael, Lord Peter is now played in these new programs by Edward Petherbridge with equally urbane finesse.

Across Harriet Walter, portrays Harriet Vane, Ms. Sayers' fictionalized mystery story writer and object of Wimsey's affections.

The new Wimsey adventures begin with "Strong Poison" in which Wimsey and Harriet first meet.

She's on trial for the murder of her lover. Wimsey is given 30 days to save her from the gallows. The new Wimsey stories can be seen at 8 p.m., Sundays, beginning Oct. 18.

According to Sayers' invention, the dapper Wimsey turns to crime-solving for intellectual thrills to escape the boredom of his upper-class English life in the 1920s and '30s.

Questioned about Wimsey's origins, Ms. Sayers once said that she didn't remember "inventing" the character.

"My impression," she says, "is that I was writing a detective story and he walked in."
